Massed Arab Attacks on Two Convoys Kill 59 Jews

Haganah Group Gives Up to British Under Truce After 'Wild West' Battle

By Fitzhugh Turner

Jerusalem, March 28 (NYHT).—One hundred and forty-nine members of Haganah, the Jewish military organization, 23 of them young women and girls, fought off about 800 attacking Arabs last night and most of today from a stone house near Bethlehem, then surrendered themselves to British soldiers, who brought them saftely out of the Arab country to the dubious safety of Jerusalem.

Seventeen Jews and three Arabs were killed in the fight, which tonight had become "the battle of Solomon's Pools," after an ancient reservoir nearby.

The incident had some of the attributes of an American Wild West battle, except that the Jews used five light airplanes from Tel Aviv to machinegun and bomb the Arabs and supply their own forces in their 30-hour ordeal. The bombs were home-made 25-pounders, dropped along with hand grenades without much effect.

British Arrange Surrender

The Haganah members fought from a circle of 21 armored trucks they had pulled up around the house. Their surrender was arranged by the British army, with the Arabs and the Jewish agency for Palestine. The Jews said that they could have held out another 48 hours and that they regretted having been rescued so soon.

The incident involved the most participants of any highway fight so far in Palestine, but it was not Easter Sunday's bloodiest. Near Nahariya, a Jewish coastal town north of Haifa, the army recovered 42 Jewish bodies from the wreckage of a truck convoy, ambushed yesterday by 250 Arabs.

In Jerusalem, Easter Sunday was a warm, sunny day in which horror competed with religion. Sniping caught worshipers on their way to church, one bullet killing an English school teacher, Miss Mildred Marston, 58. Near a hospital police found the body of a Jewish woman "executed" by the Stern group, terrorist organization. Her abductors had given her passport and rings to her 10-year-old son and told him they were taking her to Tel Aviv.

Gunfire Interrupts Service

Roman Catholic services at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre were interrupted by sounds of gunfire between British troops and Jews of Haganah and the terrorist group Irgun Zvai Leumi.

An Arab turned up from the Bethlehem fight with the head of a Jew on a platter, but before he could display it was seized and disciplined by outraged Arab authorities.

2 Killed, 14 Hurt By Earthquake In Bolivian City

La Paz, Bolivia, March 28 (U.P.)—A severe earthquake today shook Sucre, legal capital of Bolivia. First official reports said two persons were killed and 14 injured, two of them critically.

Telephone communications were disrupted. The recently completed Palace of Justice and the sports stadium were damaged. Hundreds of homes were cracked.

Nearly all of the city's inhabitants fled into the streets. Many knelt in prayer and were afraid to return to their homes for fear there would be another temblor.

Sucre authorities asked the government for help, and the Red Cross and other agencies were rushing assistance to the area.

National Gallery Comment

The Washington Post

THEIR VIEWS ON ART—Phyllis Benjamin, 13, left, an eighth-grade student, likes a "Madonna and Child" by Raphael best; Milton Hough, center, confessing that he is not an art critic, says that he prefers the religious paintings, and Wave Opal Ruth Coble, right, leans to the work of Botticelli. These were three of the thousands who visited the National Gallery yesterday to view the German paintings

Visitors to the exhibit of German owned old masters in the National Gallery like the pictures and are afraid they may fall into the hands of the Russians.

That is the observation of Capt. Harry J. Stempin of the 703d Military Police Battalion, Fort Myer, Va., who is in charge of security for the collection, which has been in Army custody since its removal from Germany. It also is the attitude of the Easter visitors at the Gallery interviewed yesterday.

"A lot of people are under the impression that the paintings are going back to Berlin and the Russians," Captain Stempin said of the collection of 202 pictures found in a German salt mine in 1945, and which the Army plans to return to the American occupation zone after the exhibit ends April 18.

Minority Sentiment

"Voicing a minority sentiment, I heard one man say the Russians would be justified in taking them, if they could get their hands on them, because the Germans destroyed so many of the Russian museums.

"The large painting, Flemish Folk Sayings,' by Breughel, seems to attract the most people. We sometimes have to station an M. P. by it just to keep visitors from getting too close.

"The Rembrandt group also is popular."

The public's enjoyment of the paintings frequently is accompanied by awe at their financial value, Captain Stempin has found.

"As soon as they learn that the assessed value is a million and a half they start looking more closely at them. The money value fascinates them.

"They can't imagine buying one, but they all say they'd like to have one to sell!"

Seven military police are detailed to guard the paintings, in addition to the Gallery's regular complement of guards.

Comments of Visitors

Milton Hough of 830 Madison st. nw., one of the thousands to visit the show yesterday, thought the paintings were "remarkably well preserved."

"I'm not much of an art critic," said Hough, a postoffice employe "but I liked the religious subjects, particularly the painting of John the Baptist by Rogier van der Weyden.

"They wouldn't go back to Germany if the Russians had them.

$20,000 Theft Reported in College Park

Bowling Alley Operator Says Only $700 in Cash Taken

About $20,000 in 50-, 100- and 1000-dollar bills was reported stolen from a College Park bowling alley operator's home early yesterday.

Prince Georges County police immediately issued a lookout although the victim said later the cash taken totaled only about $700 and the only other items missing were a half-caret diamond ring in a yellow gold setting valued at $200 and a women's lapel watch worth $50.

The police lookout said the money was taken about 1 a. m. from the home of Charles A. Gentile, 7306 Hopkins ave., College Park.

Gentile, operator of the College Park Bowling Alley, was reluctant to discuss the theft but said the cash belonged to the College Park Bowling League and had been set aside for use as prizes. It was placed in a tin box, he said, and kept in his bedroom since he was treasurer of the league.

Gentile said entrance to his home was gained by breaking a pane of glass in a rear door. He said the theft was discovered when he and his family returned home about 3 a. m. yesterday.

Lieut. Charles N. Thomsen, chief of detectives, and Detective Richard A. Pearson issued a teletype lookout immediately reporting the $20,000 in cash as stolen from College Park. All Metropolitan area police were asked to watch for suspicious persons tendering large bills.

Surgeon Routs Burglar

Meanwhile, in Washington, a surgeon with the aid of his own shouts and the barking of his dog routed a burglar in his home Saturday night, police reported yesterday.

The surgeon is Dr. Thomas Bradley, 40, of 1633 29th st. nw. He said that at 8 p. m. Saturday he and his wife and daughter were eating supper in the dining room when they heard "some kind of a noise upstairs."

Dr. Bradley related that he "sic-ed" his black Labrador retriever "Chloe" onto the culprit and then, guided by the dog's barking, found a burglar hiding in a clothes closet in a bedroom.

"He looked frightened and I decided to take advantage of it. I stuck my finger hard in his ribs and shouted in as loud a voice as I could, 'Stick your hands up.'"

The intruder did so, it was reported, but then darted past the doctor down the steps. Dr. Bradley said the man was fumbling on the lock in the front door when he came down the steps.

Dr. Bradley said he let the burglar out "to get rid of him," and then called police. The doctor

Weather Bureau Warns Farmers Of Frost Danger

By The Associated Press

The Weather Bureau and Maryland State Police issued warnings yesterday to farmers and orchardists to get ready for a crop-damaging frost.

The bureau predicted temperatures would plummet to as low as ten degrees in Western Maryland by early today and that below freezing temperatures would prevail in the rest of the State.

State police sent frost warnings to all sub-stations for distribution to farmers of their areas.

Dr. Camillo Graham, chief of the Maryland Fruit Laboratory at Hancock, said fruit buds already formed would suffer much damage if the mercury dropped to 10 degrees as predicted.

Eligible Total to Be Smaller

Nation to Have 94.8 Million Of Voting Age by November 2

By next November 2, there will be 94,815,000 persons of voting age, the largest number in history, the Census Bureau estimated yesterday.

The figures includes all persons 21 years an over, including members of the armed forces overeaas, and some 174,000 persons in Georgia between 18 and 21, entitled by State law to vote.

The total exceeds, however, those eligible to vote. From the figure there must be subtracted some two million aliens, and an unascertainable number of persons of voting age in metal institutions, penitentiaries, the District of Columbia, and persons in States other than those where they have voting privileges. State laws are so varied, the Census Bureau said, that an accurate estimate of persons eligible is impossible to obtain.

The increase in population of voting age since 1940, the bureau estimated, is 10,644,000, or almost 13 per cent. It is about 5,400,000 greater than in 1944.

By next November, women of voting age will outnumber men by 1,870,000, the report stated. For every 100 women of voting age, there will be only 96.5 men. The increase in the proportion of women over 21 to men has been growing steadily since 1910, it was pointed out.

This "reflects the effect of the more favorable death rates for females than for males in these ages, and the marked decline in immigration since 1924. Until recently male immigrants have greatly exceeded female immigrants."

The bureau noted that the population 21 years old and over is gen-

FBI to Probe 'Walkout' in Coal Mines

Federal Agents Silent as Showdown With Lewis Is Scheduled Today

By the United Press

FBI agents have been ordered into the coalfields, it was disclosed yesterday on the eve of a possible new slowdown between John L. Lewis and the Federal Government.

The agents were sent into the coalfields to see that no Federal law violations are involved in the two week old soft coal strike.

While the FBI was officially silent, it was believed the agents might also be building up evidence to show that the work stoppage is a strike under the Taft-Hartley Act. Since Lewis has not officially called a strike, such evidence might be necessary to obtain an injunction to halt the walkout.

Showdown Due Today

The new showdown between Lewis, head of the striking United Mine Workers, and the Administration is set for 10 a. m. today. Lewis has been given until then to say whether he will voluntarily appear to tell President Truman's special fact-finding board his side of the pension dispute that has idled most mines since March 15.

Should Lewis refuse to appear of his own accord, the board has made clear it will subpena the mine chieftain for its 2 p. m. public hearing today. The order is enforceable in the Federal Courts. Failure to obey a court order would subject Lewis to contempt proceedings, punishable by fines and a jail sentence.

Lewis was invited to attend a conference with the board last Friday, but failed to show up. Instead, he sent representatives.

Lewis came off second best in his last tangle with President Truman a year ago. Then he and his union paid $710,000 in fines for failure to obey a court order to call off a strike in November, 1946. Now Mr. Truman is armed with the tough Taft-Hartley law, giving him direct power to halt a strike by injunction for 80 days if he considers it a threat to the national welfare.

Hints Legal Fight

Lewis has hinted a legal fight against all Government efforts under the Taft-Hartley law, which he calls a "slave law." He might thus delay Federal efforts to end the strike speedily.

Issuance of an injunction in the coal mine strike must await the report of the fact-finding board. The board hopes to conclude its public hearings Monday with or without the testimony of Lewis. It expects to hear from Ezra Van Horn, coal mine operator and a trustee of the mine pension fund, Thomas E. Murray, who resigned as "impartial" trustee, and William L. P. Burke, secretary to the trustees.

The board may report to the President Tuesday or Wednesday. This would permit Attorney General Clark to begin injunction proceedings later this week. The FBI evidence that a strike does exist in the coal fields presumably should be gathered by that time.

Lewis is demanding that the pension fund built up by company royalties on all coal mined be used to pay $100 a month pensions for all miners 60 years of age or over with at least 20 years service.

Reds Charge Swedes Plan Bases for U.S.

Service Papers Say 'War Clique' Seeking to Gain Control of Nation

Moscow, March 28 (AP).—The newspapers of Russia's army and navy accused Sweden's military commander today of planning to build bases for United States planes and parachute troops on Swedish soil. The papers, Red Star and Red Fleet, said a war clique is striving to control the Swedish government.

The accusations came a day after the government newspaper Izvestia accused the Norwegian government of planning to lease military bases to the Americans and British. Simultaneously, Finnish negotiators are in Moscow for discussions looking toward a treaty of cooperation.

To some Moscow observers, the attacks on Sweden and Norway indicate the importance the Russians are attaching to the treaty negotiations with Finland.

Soviet View Outlined

Commentator M. Semenov wrote the article in Red Fleet. He said the Swedish commander in chief, Lieut. Gen. Helge Jung, is attempting to plan the "use of Swedish armed forces as an appendage of the American military machine and to subject the foreign policy of Sweden to he expansionist ambitions of the United States in northern Europe."

Jung's plan, the newspaper continued, is based on American help and provides for:

Construction in the northern parts of Sweden of new fortifications and airdromes for the use of American planes and parachute troops.

Inclusion of Swedish aviation in the military air force system of the United States.

Mobilization of Industry

Mobilization of industry on the basis of the importation of American strategic military materials.

Increasing the contingent of trained officers and men armed with United States weapons.

Red Fleet indicated that the group which it referred to as the war clique has not succeeded thus far in gaining control of the Swedish government.

Actions of this group have caused concern in progressive circles, the newspaper said, necessitating several statements by Foreign Minister Oesten Unden that Sweden was not joining a western military bloc.

It was officially stated that Finnish Premier Mauno Pekkala had no meeting scheduled for today with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. Pekkala is in Moscow in connection with the Finnish-Russian treaty talks.

Observers predicted that the pact negotiations would e nearing a conclusion by the middle of next week. They pointed out that the Soviet Foreign Minister and Mrs. Molotov have issued invitations for a reception Tuesday evening honoring Pekkala.

Similar receptions were held by Molotov at the time Russia's pacts with Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria were ready for signature or the negotiations had reached an advanced stage.

'Prissy' Orders Deplored

FTC Member Scolds Associates For 'Gobbledegook' Language

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Federal Trade Commission was accused yesterday by one of its members of possessing "an overdeveloped sense of responsibility plus a dim view of the public's intelligence."

The accusation was made in a dissent to an FTC order to the American Dietaids Co. of Yonkers, New York, manufacturers of Enrich, a patent medicine, "to cease and desist" from making certain claims for their product in advertising. The author was Commissioner Lowell B. Mason, a frequent dissenter.

The order "assumed" that "Enrich" is beneficial when illness is due to iron deficiency anemia. Among the symptoms, sometimes due to iron deficiency, which it aids are, according to the FTC:

"Low vitality, morning lassitude, excessive yawning, chronic drowsiness, shortness of breath, rundown condition, anemia, headaches, lack of appetite, restless sleep, irregular pulse, fainting spells, palpitation, pale cheeks or lips, swollen ankles, tiredness, and lack of energy."

LOWELL B. MASON

Envisages the time when cosmeticians will "tell the scullery maid she will always look like a dope even if she uses their lotion"

FTC ordered, however, that the makers of "Enrich" must tell the public in their advertising, that often the enumerated symptoms may be due to other causes than iron deficiency. In which case, it directed, the makers must disclose that "Enrich" is "ineffective."

"In landing on false advertising," Mason wrote, "we should not overshoot our objective."

"Thus when it comes to interpreting (as I ween we have the power to do) wrongful suggestions from rightful representations, we had best approach the field slowly."

World at Crossroads In Fight With Reds, Pope Tells 400,000

Throngs in Fashion Parade

Fancy Frills and Furbelows Brave Chilly Easter Breezes

CANINE PARADER—While his master, Tim Mittell, 6, of 1213 Matthew's ct. nw., appears to be enjoying his Easter stroll along Rhode Island and Connecticut aves., Peaches, his pet spaniel, appears somewhat disgusted in his Easter bonnet

Washingtonians yesterday braved chilly winds to celebrate Easter with fashionable frills and furbelows.

After attending sunrise or regular church services, people by the thousands thronged over Connecticut ave. to participate in the fashion parade, or visited the cherry blossoms.

Traffic was snarled frequently along Connecticut ave. and 16th st. as cars snaked through the streets, their occupants gawking at strollers along these thoroughfares. Elsewhere, however, police traffic details were curtailed because traffic did not hit expected peaks.

Park police counted 33,174 cars at cherry bloosom sites, and estimated approximately 140,000 persons saw the blooms. Police characterized this as a "very good crowd" for yesterday's weather.

For the rest of the Nation, too, Easter was a chilly day. The temperatures here hovered in the 40s, and the sun was frequently masked by wind-driven clouds.

In some cases, women donned winter coats over their spring finery, but most women came out in spring suits or coats, and the majority of the men were uncoated.

The Connecticut Avenue Association's fashion parade, from 12:30 to 3 o'clock, drew huge crowds in the vicinity of the Mayflower Hotel, where the judging went on. Association cars went up and down the avenue carrying judges, who made their selections in a number of categories. In all, 25 prizes were awarded, consisting of merchandise valued at between $1000 and $1500.

Winners included:

Fight on Trade With Soviet Is Feared as Danger to ERP

By the United Press

Senate President Vandenberg (R., Mich.) and the State Department are concerned lest the threatened trade war with Russia endanger the European Recovery Program, it was disclosed yesterday.

This concern is based on belief that congressional reaction to United States shipment of aircraft engines to Russia may mushroom into House action cutting off aid to western European states doing business behind the iron curtain.

Chief concern among Senate leaders and State Department officials is an amendment to the House foreign aid bill sponsored by Representative Mundt (R., S. Dak.). It would order the aid administrator to cut off American assistance to any European nation shipping materials to Russia or her satellites that might be of value in event of war.

The House begins considering amendments to its "single package" aid bill today, with a vote on passage expected by Wednesday. House leaders predicted approval by a 3-to-1 margin.

The measure then will go to a Senate-House conference for an adjustment of differences. The Senate bill is confined to the European Recovery Program, while the House bill includes ERP, economic aid to China, military aid to Greece, Turkey and China and a contribution to the United Nations children's fund.

Both Vandenberg and the State Department have stated publicly that restoration of prewar Soviet trade with western Europe is a

Pontiff Declares The Great Hour of Christian Conscience Now Has Sounded

Vatican City, March 28 (AP). Pope Pius XII declared today Italy and the world have reached the crossroads in the struggle against Communism—"the great hour of Christian conscience has sounded."

He spoke to 400,000 Italians and people from all over the world. They crowded into St. Peter's Square and filled the roofs of buildings surrounding it to receive the Pope's Easter blessing. The assembly dwarfed all political rallies that have been held for the April 18 elections in which Italians will decide whether Communists shall control their government.

The Pontiff, dressed all in white, spoke from the center balcony of St. Peter's, high above the heads of the cheering mass. He said the moment is one of singular gravity and importance to the world.

Communists Clearly Indicated

As is his custom, Pope Pius did not mention communism by name. But no one doubted whom he meant when he quoted from St. Matthew the "terrible verdict" of Christ: "He that is not with me is against me."

"You, beloved sons and daughters, well comprehend what such a crossroads signifies and contains for for Rome, for Italy, for the world," the Pope said.

"In your conscience, aroused to full understanding of its responsibility, there is no place for blind credulity toward those who at first are abundant with affirmations of respect for religion, but then, alas, reveal themselves the deniers of that which is most sacred.

"In your conscience there is no place for cowardice, for the irresolution of so many in this crucial hour to be able to serve two masters.

Church Is Defended

"Your conscience knows that the realizaton of social justice and peace among the nations can never be achieved or preserved if the eyes are closed to the light of Christ the cornerstone of their to the erroneous words of agitators who make the negation of Christ the cornesstone of their work."

Rome, he said, is "in the midst of a turning of the times which requires of the head and members of Christianity the highest vigilance, untiring preparedness and unconditioned action.

"Watch and pray," he admonished the Romans. "Awake and pray . . . The great hour of Christian conscience has sounded."

He defended the church against Communist campaign charges that it is reactionary and impoverishes the people. The church has been accused unjustly, he added, of the "faults of one of its degenerate members whom the church deplores and severely punishes."

Scandal Is Red Theme

This was a reference to the recent Vatican scandal in which Msgr. Edward Cippico, former Vatican archivist, was defrocked. He now is awaiting trial in a Roman prison on charges of fraud and embezzlement. The Cippico case has been one of the main Communist campaign themes in Italy.

The Pope concluded his address with the famed "Urbit et Orbi" (To the City and the World) blessing, and added:

"The church loves its detractors, who also are its sons, and invites them as we now invite you all, oh

Easter Flower Spurned, Man Commits Suicide

Cumberland, Md., March 28 (Spl.)—Wilfred Tighe, 36-year-old bartender, surprised his wife last night with an Easter flower.

Mrs. Tighe told him he could have found a better use for his money. That hurt his feelings. "Something's going to happen. I'm going to finish it right now," he replied, walking away from the tavern which he and his wife operate.

A few minutes later a shot was heard and Tighe was found dead. He had killed himself.

Orlando Sees Reds As Losers In Italy

Newspaper Says:

5000 Slav Troops Move Into Trieste

Rome, March 28 (U.P.)—Five thousand Yugoslav troop reinforcements have been moved into the Yugoslav occupied zone of Trieste free territory and 300 camouflaged, Russian-made tanks have been concentrated at a point near the border, 9 miles northeast of Trieste, the usually reliable independent newspaper, Il Momento, said today.

Il Momento said that, during the past few days, 3000 Yugoslav troops were brought into the hamlets of Veternegliо and Castelvetere and 2000 into the town of Buie, all in the southern, Yugoslav-controlled zone of the free state. Whole families were evited from their homes to provide lodging for the troops, the report said.

The newspaper said other troop reinforcements had been reported in the Gulf of Trieste town of Capodistria and Isola and described a "hectic war psychosis" there.

Easter Sunday Spent In War Maneuvers

Crevatini, Trieste Free Territory, March 28 (UP).—More than 1000 Yugoslavs spent this Easter Sunday morning in war maneuvers on the great plain called "Valley of the Fields," adjoining the Anglo-American zone of Trieste Free Territory.

They fired machineguns, carried out close order drill and infantry field tactics and took part in mortar instruction.

It looked as if the entire "valley," which is about five miles by airline from the center of Trieste city, had been converted into a great Yugoslav training area for all types of ground troops.

Why, with their whole country behind them, the Yugoslavs selected this particular spot in the Yugoslav occupation zone of Trieste, right under the noses of the western allies, to train troops is anybody's guess. One guess is that they are using this area just so the Allies can see what goes on.

Have Little Chance To Carry Election, Ex-Premier Declares

By J. Edward Murray

Rome, March 28 (U.P.) — Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, Italy's World War I Premier, said today the Communists have little or no chance of getting into the Italian government legally in the April 18 elections.

Orlando, who will be 88 in May, the last survivor of the Big Four Prime Ministers who attended the Versailles peace conference, said he was not making a bombshell prediction.

Objective Observer

Instead, he said, he was giving his interpretation of the present Italian political scene "as probably the only objective observer left."

"I've lived beyond my time and I'm too old to care," he said in an interview. "I have no party. It is law and parliamentary procedure which interest me. You can judge if I'm senile."

He is not. He is alert as any man can be. He also is Italy's leading jurist, and parliamentary expert, and one of the world's main authorities on constitutional law.

Eight Questions Answered

I presented eight written questions to Orlando in advance. He gave me one written answer to all of them. The gist of it was that Italy now is a parliametnary republic and anything can happen.

He believes the Communists will be kept out of the government as long as their maneuvering is legal. He considered postelection illegal action by Communists possible, but would express no opinion on its likelihood.

Orlando's viewpoint is the most authoritative non-Communist one in Italy, because, as he pointed out, he as former Premier and leading constitutional authority, will be President Enrico de Nicola's chief adviser after the election.

Parties in Italy Rest On Easter for Election

Rome, March 28 (U.P.)—Leftists and rightists alike took an Easter holiday to rest up for the last three weeks of the crucial national election campaign.

The respite followed scattered violence yesterday, and reports of vote frauds in Genoa. A Ministry of Interior communique described the irregularities as being among the "gravest" uncovered thus far.

Violence occurred last night during a rally of the openly Fascist Italian Social movement of Udine. Unidentified persons threw a bomb into a crowd. Seven were injured.

At Ancona, Achille Corona, editor of the pro-Communist Socialist newspaper Avanti, was saved by police from angry Republican Party sympathizers after he referred to the Republicans' maple leaf emblem as "a fig leaf to cover up their shame."

The tempo of wall poster warfare increased in Rome with the overnight appearance of "V-2" signs.

The signs were nicknamed "V-2" after the World War II weapon. The consist of a large letter "V" inside which are written the words "Vota, Vinci, Vivia ("vote, conquer, live"), exhorting the voters to go to the polls.

Russians Ready For Bacteria War, Johnson Says

By The Associated Press

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.) yesterday credited the Russians with perfecting a new weapon, "far more effective than the atomic bomb—bacteriological warfare."

"Authorities I regard as reliable tell me the Russians have perfected this terrible warfare weapon of spreading plagues and germs," he said. "It will be far easier to use than the atomic bomb. Fifth columnists could spread disease and terror in large urban or industrial centers with slight chance of detection.

"They can bring in suitcases filled with these death carriers and free them effectively under cover of darkness or crowds."

Navy Buying 50 P-80 Jet Fighters

By the United Press

The Navy announced yesterday it is buying 50 of the P-80 Shooting Star jet fighters developed by the United States Air Force.

It will use the Lockheed planes to train naval pilots in the handling of jet-type aircraft.

An official statement explained that the Navy has ordered a special kind of jet plane to be used on its carriers. The Navy said the P-80 is "not structurally suited" for aircraft carrier landings, and does not have folding wings.

Governor Sigler Flies Michael Over Detroit

Detroit, March 28 (AP).—Former King Michael of Romania had a plane ride over Detroit today with Governor Kim Sigler at the controls. Only Michael's aide, Maj. Jacques Vergotti, went with them.

As a Romanian-American dinner in Michael's honor began, a small group of Romanian-Americans attempted to disperse pickets carrying anti-Michael placards outside the Book Cadillac Hotel. Police broke up the affray quickly.

The ex-monarch was guarded closely. The State Department said it was "taking measures" to protect him after threats on his life were reported.

'There'll Be No War,' Says Czech Premier

Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 28 (AP).—Communist Premier Klement Gottwald told a Communist Party district meeting today there will not be another war. The Premier said the will to peace throughout the world is so strong that any government starting a conflict would be torn to bits by its own people.

Alois Neumann, Minister of Posts, told a group of Czechs from Vienna, "Do not listen to gossip about (President Eduard) Benes. It is not true." The statement was reported on the Prague radio's late news broadcast without further comment or any explanation of what the rumors are.

400,000 Receive Pope's Easter Blessing . . .

SQUARE JAMMED—More than 400,000 jammed St. Peter's Square yesterday to receive the annual Easter blessing of Pope Pius. The Pontiff told the cheering multitude that the hour of Christian conscience has sounded. The Pontiff is shown at lower left speaking from a balcony of historic St. Peter's people of Rome, oh people of Italy and peoples of the world to a union of harmony, love and thoughts and plans of peace."

Planes roared overhead as he spoke. They swooped low to spill hundreds of thousands of leaflets, some with a caricature of Stalin, that spun and glittered in the bright sunlight. Thousands of outstretched hands received them.

Again and again the Pope had to pause as a plane roared overhead or the cheers of the multitude drowned the words of his strongest voice.

The vari-colored leaflets dropped by the planes included prayers. Thousands had only the letter "V" which had been claimed by all political parties and is variously interpreted to mean vote, victory and vita (life).

The one that drew the greatest attention was a red star with the face of Italy's patriot, Giuseppe Garibaldi, which has been made the emblem of the Communist-dominated Popular Front.

"Turn this around and you will see the fraud," said a sentence in tiny print. Turned around, Garibaldi became a glowering, fierce-faced Stalin.

Another leaflet bore the slogan: "Can you imagine Rome without the Pope?"

Premier Alcide de Gasperi, leader of the Christian Democrats, the main anti-Communist opposition, arrived a few minutes before the Pope appeared.

Admirers shouted "Viva de Gasperi!"

Long before the Pontiff appeared, thousands filled all the streets leading to St. Peter's Square.

They included men and women of all colors — missionaries from Africa, Japan and China, and tourists from all European countries and America here for the Easter holiday.

But the vast majority were Italians who saw in the imposing display a war cry against communism.

Thousands of members attended from the Italian Catholic Action—the four million strong organization which has served as the church's shock troops in its fight against Communism. Its youth members broke into song as they waited for the Pope. One of their banners read "For Christ—we are the youth in ranks." Another said "We are the youth of the Pope." Everywhere were signs of "Viva Papa" (long live the Pope).

Throughout Rome blue and red colored posters had been placed during the night calling upon the people to gather at St. Peter's to wish the Pontiff a happy Easter.

Thousands knelt on the stone of the square as the Pope concluded his speech and gave his blessing. The bronze bells of the basilica began to boom. The Pontiff stood a few moments, responding again and again to the throng's cheers by stretching his arms out in blessing on those below.

Italian Election Crisis Stressed by Sheen

New York, March 28 (UP).—Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen told an Easter congregation at St. Patrick's Cathedral today that if Italy goes Communist in the April 18 elections "the head of the Christian world may be beaten with the hammer, and the heart of the Christian world pierced by the sickle."

"There is now danger that the catacombs of Rome may once more have to open their hospitable caverns to the sheep in flight from the bear," he said.

Sheen, a professor at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C., called on his listeners to send letters and cables to their friends in Italy.

Archbishop Urges Letters to Italians

Westchester, Penn., March 28. (UP).—Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia, in a pastorial letter urged Catholics today to write their relatives and friends in Italy, asking them to vote against the Communists in the elections April 18.

"If the Communists win April 18th, Christianity is lost," Cardinal Dougherty said. "Please write your friends in Italy tonight and advise them immediately of this tragic situation."

Roosevelt Urges Veterans Be Put On Rent Boards

By the United Press

Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., yesterday called for the appointment of World War II veterans to the local boards that will act on petitions for rent increases or removal of ceilings.

As national housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee, he urged State governors to name new "representative" rent boards in each community to administer the modified "home rule" provisions of the rent control law, which is awaiting President Truman's approval.

Mr. Truman has until Wednesday, when the present rent law expires, to act on the measure passed by Congress last week. It provides for a Federal court of appeals to have the final say when local boards and the Federal Housing Expediter disagree on moves to raise or scrap ceilings.

Hacker Robbed of $10

A cab driver reported that early yesterday he was robbed of $10 by a passenger who brandished a blue steel revolver. The hacker is Clinton G. Taylor, 1003 U st. nw. He reported that he picked up his fare in the Howard University campus.

Two would-be burglars were arrested, according to police early yesterday while attempting to break into stores here. One of the housebreakers is a 12-year-old boy. The other, a 37-year-old laborer, is being held for investigation. He was arrested after the rear door glass at the District Line Hardware Store, 6029 Dix st. ne., was broken and in his hand was a screwdriver and pry bar.

The 12-year-old boy was arrested on the roof of Hal's Pawn Exchange, 1210 7th st. nw., after the glass of the skylight had been broken. The boy had a hacksaw in his hand, police said.

Easter Brings Hope to People In War, Peace

By The Associated Press

Easter brought its message of faith and cheer to Christians the world round yesterday, but in many places the words of hope sounded against a background of fear and conflict.

In Jerusalem, echoes of explosions and gunfire reached the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, hallowed as the site of Christ's resurrection. Catholic Archbishop Arthur Hughes conducted services there while Arabs and Jews in other parts of the city battled with rifles and mortars. Only the most devout braved the dangers of the civil war to worship at the Tomb. A British woman teacher, returning from church, was shot to death.

New York's clear weather brought out an estimated, million participants in the Easter parade along Fifth and Madison aves.

Easter paraders also made a brave show in some of the great European capitals. But in the background many heard, or imagined they could hear, the sound of guns.

Britain enjoyed a "little summer" in a normally blustery March. Thousands went swimming at seaside resorts.

In a setting of barren hills and great rocks near Lawton, Okla., resembling that of old Judea, the Wichita Mountains Easter Pageant was presented for the twenty-fourth time, before a crowd estimated at 50,000.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 persons attended a sunrise service in Miami's Orange Fowl.

Some 15,000 attended an interdenominational sunrise service in Chicago's Soldier Field, where the dawn temperature was 23 degrees.

Bunker Hill, Ill., ravaged by a tornado March 19, had an open-air service conducted from a bandstand amid the wreckage, with volunteer salvage workers participating.

More than 2000 persons attended the fourteenth annual Easter sunrise service at the Shrine of the Ages on the south rim of the Grand Canyon at Grand Canyon, Ariz. The service was broadcast to radio listeners throughout the world.

Marshall Leaves For Bogota Parley

Iran Accused By Soviet of Telling Lie

Tehran, Iran, March 28 (AP).—Russia has accused the Iranian government of lying about the activities of United States military advisers in Iran. The charge was contained in a Soviet note dated March 24 and received last night by the Iranian government.

The note said an Iranian-American agreement of October, 1947, showed that "the role of American military advisers is one of leadership in the Iranian army."

Iran's explanation that the Americans do not have authority to direct Iranian military affairs is without foundation, the note said.

"The claim of the Iranian government that 'Americans have not monopolized the right to occupy key military posts in Iran' is also contrary to fact," the note continued.

Iran has said that the Americans are here merely to give training and advice. (The same explanation was made by a spokesman for the United States State Department February 2. He listed the total strength of two United States military missions in Iran as 26 officers.)

The note was Russia's second in connection with American activities here. It said the efforts of the Iranian government to classify Russia's protest as an interference in Iran's internal affairs "is contrary to good neighborly relations" as provided for in the Russian-Iranian treaty of 1921.

In denying the allegations contained in the original Russian note of last January 31, Iran accused the Soviet Union of giving refuge to rebels from Azerbaijan province. That province borders on the Soviet Union.

The new Soviet note denied that Iranian political refugees in the Soviet Union had been granted permission to form military units for the purpose of attacking Iran.

Length of Absence Depends Upon What Happens in Europe

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Marshall left for South America last night with the chances at least even that he will have to return here ahead of schedule because of some new crisis in the conflict between Russia and the western powers.

Marshall is flying to Bogota, Colombia, to head the United States delegation to the Inter-American Conference opening Tuesday. The conference is expected to last about six weeks.

Emphasizing the importance which the United States attaches to the meeting, President Truman assigned to it two other Cabinet members in addition to Marshall—Secretaries Harriman of Commerce and Snyder of Treasury. Snyder, however, wil not actually go to Bogota unless Marshall sends for him.

Marshall's plane took off at 9:02 p. m. It is due to reach Bogota about 12:30 p. m. (EST) today.

William McChesney Martin, head of the Export-Import Bank, was another passenger. Secretary Harriman planned to fly from Miami to Panama in time to meet the Secretary of State's plane there.

Just before the takeoff Marshall told reporters he thinks the Bogota meeting "will bring very important results."

Marshall is going to Bogota to stay the full time if possible, aides said. But diplomatic officials concerned with the situation in Europe are very uncertain about his ability to hold to that schedule.

At least three critical developments are in prospect for the month ahead. Depending on how they go, any one of them might jeopardize American interests or require American policy decisions sufficiently grave to require Marshall's presence back in Washington.

These three developments are: (1) the April 18 general election in Italy, (2) the forthcoming showdown between Helsinki and Moscow over the proposed Soviet-Finnish defense treaty, and (3) possible Russian demands on Norway.

In addition, American policies for giving greater military support to western Europe, paralleling the plan for European economic recovery, may be coming to a head within the next few weeks. So may any new Soviet moves designed to meet this Nation's new stop-Russia policy.

Except in one particular the problems of the Bogota conference will be far removed from those of Europe. The single connection lies in the Marshall Plan for European recovery and the money which, under that plan, the United States may spend in Latin American countries.

The chief concern of the other American governments at Bogota apparently will be to enlist United States assistance in building up their industries and developing their natural resources. At least a part of the United States answer to this will be the fact that the European recovery plan calls for spending about $1,500,000,000 in the Western Hemisphere on foodstuffs and other raw materials required for European recovery.

Marshall's Arrival Signal for Opening

Bogota, Colombia, March 28 (U.P.).—U. S. Secretary of State Marshall's arrival tomorrow at the head of a 90-member delegation will be the signal for the opening of activities at the Inter-American Conference. Marshall will be the last chief delegate to arrive.

Marshall and his party are expected to reach here about noon. Early in the afternoon all chief delegates will be received by Colombia's Foreign Minister Laureano Gomez. Later he will accompany them to a reception at the presidential palace, where the delegates will be introduced to President Mariano Ospina Perez.

Returns Show Red Sweep in Romania Vote

Bucharest, March 28 (AP).—Early returns showed tonight that nearly 93 per cent of Romanians voting in today's national elections approved the Communist-led government bloc.

The election was for members of a new national assembly, and is expected to consolidate further the extreme Left's control.

Unofficial returns from nine of the nation's 59 election districts showed that 984,221 of 1,078,725 registered voters cast ballots. Of that number, 910,904 voted for candidates of the government bloc headed by Premier Petru Groza.

The returns did not include those for the city of Bucharest, which are expected to be tabulated later tonight.

The 414 deputies selected in the balloting will consider a constitution making Romania a Socialist-Communist state. A victory for the government's popular front is a foregone conclusion.

Fewer parties had candidates in the field today than in the last national election in November, 1946. The National Peasant Party has been suppressed and the National Liberal and Independent Socialist Parties did not enter candidates.

Voters today were limited to a choice of from one to four lists as tcopared with a maximum of eight in the last election.

In the 70 miles between Bucharest and Pitesti, not more than 50 gendarmes were seen as compared with hundreds in the 1946 elections.

Danger Seen To ERP Plan

"basic assumption" for success of the Marshall Plan. But they add the important provision that such trade must not mean political domination by Russia.

Meanwhile, there were these other foreign aid developments:

1. The Senate was scheduled to begin debate Tuesday on a $463,000,000 China aid program. It includes 100 million dollars that could be used as military aid for the anti-Communist forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

2. Some Democrats on the House Foreign Affairs Committee prepared to offer an amendment to the House bill that would ban military aid to Greece, Turkey and China. They contend such aid would leave the United States open to Russian charges of imperialism and might hurt United States interests in the forthcoming Italian elections.

3. House Foreign Affairs Committee members geared for a fight against an amendment by Representative O'Konski (R., Mich.) to include Spain in the recovery program. Committee Chairman Eaton (R., N. J.) said the 16 Marshall Plan nations should decide whether Spain is to receive aid.

While both Vandenberg and the State Department have stated publicly that ERP for the present at least contemplates no aid to eastern Europe, they believe there should be no obstacle placed in the way of restoring East-West trade.

Arab Attacks Kill 59 Jews

battles were fought in various parts of the new city.

The Bethleheem fight started yesterday afternoon when Arabs intercepted a thirty-four-vehicle Jewish convoy on its way back to Jerusalem from Kfar Etzion, in the hills of Hebron. Twelve of the Jews died in road-mine explosions and gasoline fires at a road block, a few returned to Kfar Ttzion, and the rest found haven at the abandoned stone house.

Scene of Amity

Forty-four of the Jews were wounded, twenty of them seriously enough to require hospitalization. The surrender scene oddly was one almost of temporary amity. Two physicians of the Anurab Medical Association ambulance treated the wounded Jews as carefully as if they had been Arabs.

A Jewish girl slapped an Arab who wanted to search her, and his friends laughed at him. A Jew and a former Arab friend exchanged conversation in Arabic and Hebrew—they apologized for having shot at each other.

Special U. N. Palestine Session Will Be Pressed by Americans

Lake Success, L. I., March 28 (NYHT).—The United States appeared determined today to go ahead and request the United Nations Security Council to approve a special Palestine session of the General Assembly, despite a foredoomed lack of council support for the plan.

There was no indication from the Americans whether the request, which may be put to the council Tuesday, will contain reference to the 10-day-old American suggestion that a special session be called to consider a Palestine trusteeship, or whether it will simply ask for an assembly meeting on the Holy Land.

Key council nations, including France, Canada and Belgium, have indicated rather plainly that they cannot support a U. N. shift on the original American partition plan without some guarantee that the big powers could and would agree for carrying out a trusteeship.

China, Colombio and the British are traditional abstainers so far as the Holy Land issue is concerned, and it is unlikely that Russia and the Ukraine will support any proposal envisioning a U. N. switch on Palestine. The backing of Syria and Argentine seems improbable in the light of President Truman's statement that, despite the new trusteeship proposal, he still favors eventual partition.

Idea on Trusteeship

Most U. N. delegations are still convinced that trusteeship would require as much, if not more, enforcing than the original partition plan, which President Truman said on Thursday the United States could not undertake to impose by the use of American troops.

Jewish Group Demands U. N. Palestine Action

New York, March 28 (NYHT).—Modification of the American policy on Palestine has damaged United States prestige and delivered a blow to the United Nations, leaders of the American Jewish Committee, headed by Herbert H. Lehman, honorary vice president, said today.

The U. N. Security Council should "summarily put an end to the invasion of Palestine by Arab countries, and restore order within Palestine, the committee said in a statement also signed by Judge Joseph M. Proskauer, president, and Jacob Blaustein, chairman of the executive committee.

"We quite understand and applaud the desire for a peaceful solution," the group said, "but we urge that the United Nations cannot with dignity and safety be put in the position of arriving at a decision and then submitting to internal and external violence in Palestine.

"Peace will not result from condoning violence. It can only be achieved by suppressing violence."

In a heavily veiled passage, which did not mention Communism directly, the committee warned that the Jewish factions in Palestine might turn away from the "democracies of the world" in order to attain their objectives.

Ihud Association Hails Truman Call for Truce

Jerusalem, March 28 (U.P.).—The conservative Jewish Ihud Association said tonight that it welcomed President Truman's call for a truce in Palestine, and would accept the proposal for an interim trusteeship.

The organization, made up of a small number of influential Jews, is led by Dr. Judah Magnos.

Soviet Atom Control Plan Slated to Die

Lake Success, N. Y., March 28 (U.P.).—The American-led majority of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission prepared tonight to reject completely Russia's year-old proposals for international atomic control.

The 11 nations of the commission called a meeting of their working committee for tomorrow. The majority, officials reported, hope to end all discussion of the oft-criticized Russian proposals for a world atomic control agency that would have limited powers of inspection to detect atomic violators.

The United States and eight other commission members already have served notice during months of discussion of Moscow's proposals that they do not consider them an adequate basis for world atomic security.

They have committed themselves instead to the original United States atomic plan, as presented in June 1946 by Bernard M. Baruch.

The Baruch plan has been elaborated during two years of bitter debate between Russia and the western powers in the Atomic Commission and its various committees. The American proposals call for a veto-proof world atomic control agency with broad powers to manage, supervise and, in some cases, own, the world's atomic energy facilities.

The commission would be empowered to send inspectors into any corner of the world to insure against clandestine atomic activities or the diversion of nuclear fuel from peaceful uses.

The control agency would have power to take steps early in the game to correct violations, and the Security Council, with the veto nullified in atomi cases, would be required to punish offenders.

Reds Say West Seeks to End Foreign Ministers Council

Berlin, March 28 (AP).—A Moscow broadcast said today the western powers "intend to destroy and bury the Foreign Ministers Council, just as they are destroying the Control Council" for Germany.

"Is it not a fact that now intensive preparations are under way for convocation of a separatist conference of the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France?" the broadcaster asked, quoting from the Communist organ Pravda.

The last meeting of the four-power Foreign Ministers Council was held in December in London. It was unable to agree on a future course for Germany. No new meeting has been projected. Authorities in Paris, Washington and London denied last Tuesday that a three-power meeting (excluding Russia) is planned for April.

Representatives of the three foreign ministries, but not the secretaries themselves, met in London early this month. They announced tentative agreements on a number of problems concerning the western occupation zones of Germany.

Moscow's broadcast said the western powers, despite denials by Secretary of State Marshall, "are wrecking the Control Council and burying it."

The Russians eight days ago walked out of a meeting of this council, after the western powers' representatives refused to be questioned about the London meeting which discussed the western occupatoin zones. There seemed scant prospect today that this deadlock will be broken by Tuesday, when the next regular meeting of the Control Council is scheduled.

Rep. Allen Favors Registration Bill

House Committee Leader, However, Is Opposed to Immediate Draft Policy

By The Associated Press

A Republican House leader came out yesterday for restoring the wartime draft machinery while flatly opposing universal military training.

He is Chairman Allen (R., Ill.) of the House Rules Committee, one of the most important cogs in congressional machinery. He said he favors setting up local draft boards and registering men 18 to 26—but without an immediate call to service. He said it would fit us to draft on short notice, "if necessary."

Allen's statement coincided with reports that the House leadership, generally, is swinging around to a registration-but-no-draft-now bill.

In the Senate, Republican leaders were reported leaning toward a temporary draft to be put in operation by President Truman if volunteering fails to provide the manpower.

Allen's Rules Committee has refused to clear the training bill for a House vote. He contended yesterday it is not necessary and wouldn't help in an emergency.

Outside of Congress, the UMT issue brought these developments:

1. The national defense committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce said UMT should be included in a United States security program, along with industrial mobilization planning, vigorous research, expanded air power and stronger military forces. It called in its report for more stockpiling of strategic materials.

2. Speedy action on UMT in Congress was urged by Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She said in a statement that the "Communist crisis" makes it necessary and that opposition to the plan is "fast melting away."

3. The National Wallace for President Committee said in a statement that supporters of Henry Wallace will launch Tuesday an "Enlist for Peace" drive. It will oppose UMT, the draft and "war hysteria."

Oust Marshall, as 'Failure,' To Avert War, Knutson Cries

By The Associated Press

Representative Knutson (R., Minn.) said yesterday that Gen. George C. Marshall must be ousted as Secretary of State "if we would avert war."

Knutson

The Minnesotan, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has long been critical of Administration foreign policy. He declared Marshall has been a "complete failure" as Secretary of State and described him as "pompous, self-opinionated in the extreme, vacillating and unpredictable."

The statement was made in an editorial Knutson wrote for his weekly newspaper, the Wadena (Minn.) Pioneer Journal. He said:

"These are critical times all over the world, and yet we have no fixed foreign policy. We are drifting from pillar to post, and if we would avert war Marshall must be replaced without delay.

"It is tragic that the foreign affairs of our Government are in the hands of two incompetents—Truman and Marshall."

The editorial said Marshall has failed in all his diplomatic assignments—in China, in his effort to iron out differences between Russia and the United States, and in the handling of the Palestine question.

DAR President Backs UMT Plan

Direct and speedy congressional action for universal military training was urged yesterday by Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Declaring the "Communist crisis" makes UMT mandatory, Mrs. O'Byrne, who has just returned here from a countrywide tour, said public sentiment is "fast changing in favor of the program."

"Congress must be shown," she said, "that the citizens and particularly the women of America are aware of the weakness in our national defense."

Draft-Agers Seek Service Information

By the United Press

Recruiting offices have been swamped with business since President Truman asked Congress to revive the draft. But most of the callers are just asking questions—not signing up.

This trend was disclosed yesterday in a United Press survey of 21 major cities from coast to coast. With few exceptions, recruiting offices reported a "slight increase" in actual enlistments, and a big jump in the number of inquiries.

A large proportion of the callers are nonveterans in the 18 through 25 age group which Defense Secretary Forrestal has asked Congress to draft. Some of these tell the recruiters bluntly that they are seeking information because "I'll volunteer, if I see they're going to draft me."

Several cities reported, however, that numerous inquiries are coming from veterans of World War II.

Many GIs Find Banks Refuse Home Loans

By the United Press

Veterans are finding it increasingly difficult to get GI home loans from their banks, and many are being turned down flat, it was disclosed yesterday.

The head of one of Washington's largest banks, said his institution "does not like GI-type loans as such" and has adopted an "exceedingly" selective policy toward them.

A Veterans Administration spokesman said his agency was not in a position to comment, but its figures showed that veterans' loan applications as submitted by banks had declined steadily from 52,700 last September to only 32,600 in February. The situation reportedly is Nation-wide.

Reluctance of the banks to advance GI loans apparently is due to several things:

1—Other types of investments pay a higher rate of interest than the 4 per cent GI loans. The yield on Government and corporate bonds is increasing steadily.

2—The loans, most of which are committed on a 20-year basis, are not readily negotiable. There has been no secondary market since the Reconstruction Finance Corp. stopped buying them last July 1.

3—Too many veterans fail to invest any of their own money in the first payment.

It has been suggested that Congress restore to the RFC its authority to buy GL loans from the banks.

On March 11, Magil was refused a passport to Palestine; 12 days later the State Department turned down his request for a passport to cover the Geneva conference "because it is not in the best interests of the United States at the present time" to grant them.

the ruling, Mason added:

"If nearly half, or even a smaller percentage, of the headaches (I use this as an example) may be cured by taking iron, I see no reason for a vitamin peddler to spend money telling folks what his product is not good for.

"To put it simply, if a man claims apples are in his basket, must he deny the presence of peaches?"

Mason then turned on FTC, and declared:

"Even the courts, which review our orders, have been concerned with our overmeticulousness. In some cases they have indicated between the lines a helpless despair over some of our prissy commands (if I may be permitted to use the same power of interpreting the language of the courts which the statute allows me to use on advertisers)."

Mason then slapped his fellow members with:

"The soul of advertising is brevity and clarity. It is a public message to be understood.

"We in Government bureaus seek the opposite. We want to protect ourselves from being misunderstood. Hence, all the whereases and provisos and qualifying clauses which lead to the safe but utter confusion known as gobbledegook.

"When the merchants of America must all talk like Government lawyers, life will be most complicated. Advertisements will look like the Federal Register and will be read about as frequently.

"We will all turn into a species of robots clicking out IBM data to one another, choosing our canned foods by code, marrying by IQ, propagating by test tube and dying by formula.

"When this millennium has arrived, it will be the proper time for such an order as is here attempted.

"Then will be the time for So-and-So's Cosmetic Company to tell the scullery maid that she will always look like a dope even if she uses their lotion.

"The purpose of the Federal Trade Commission is to protect the public from unfair and deceptive advertising. We cannot cure people. We cannot determine the science of medicine being what it is, what advertisements of food, drugs, etc., will positively lead to health.

"If we were able to do so, we should leave the bench and join a clinic."

Bridges Invites Unions to Parley

San Francisco, March 28 (AP).—President Harry Bridges of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union today invited one independent and four CIO maritime unions to meet here April 9.

At the same time Bridges called a coastwise longshore caucus back into session for April 8. The maritime unions' contracts end June 15 and Bridges' action was interpreted as seeking agreement on mutual support as they enter negotiations with employers.

Latin American Unions Seek to Seize Land

Mexico City, March 28 (AP).—Unions from 17 Latin American nations today called for expropriation of agricultural land held by the church, large landowners and foreign corporations.

The third general congress of the Labor Confederation of Latin America (CTAL) adopted a proposal to press for expropriation with or without compensation to owners. They also voted to hold a Latin American labor congress later in the year to coordinate a campaign for land reform.

Pepper Fires Blast In Turn on Soviet

Aggressive Action Offends Sense of Freedom, He Says

By The Associated Press

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), who has said kind things of Russia in years past, turned on her yesterday with a blunt charge of aggression upon her neighbors. He said it offends our sense of freedom.

Then, warning that we are "on the very brink" of war, the Senator appealed to President Truman to make "a last dramatic effort" for peace in a personal meeting with Generalissimo Satlin.

Pepper said he wanted Mr. Truman to propose to Stalin "an American plan for peace," which would (1) call a halt to physical and ideological aggression by all nations, and (2) promise our economic help to those who conform.

"This is not a proposed meeting for appeasement," Pepper declared, as he outlined his ideas in a radio interview (Station WEAM). "I don't believe in appeasement."

Before we aided Russia, Pepper said, we would want to be sure "that they are not going to take the help we give them and use it against us."

Pepper said he felt this country had led the Soviet bloc nations to feel they would not be helped to recover from the war because of their politics. Help to them now, he suggested, migh' "bring them into the orbit of the nations that are working for peace."

"The Soviet Union," he added, "has been guilty of aggression which offends and affronts our sense of independence and dignity and freedom for the peoples of the world."

If a reasonable and fair peace plan is rejected by Marshal Stalin, Pepper said, "then I will feel that we have done what we should do, at least made a last dramatic effort to prevent the horror of another unspeakable war," he said.

April 6 Primary

3 Republican Hopefuls Vie In Wisconsin

By the United Press

Three Republican presidential candidates go through the wringer of a Wisconsin primary next week and someone is fairly certain to get squeezed pretty badly.

Further light may be thrown on the GOP presidential picture in the Nebraska primary the following week.

The Wisconsin primary will be held April 6, the Nebraska primary April 13. There will be other GOP primaries during the month in New York, Illinois, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. But those of Wisconsin and Nebraska are the important ones.

In Wisconsin it is a three-way contest between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Each has a full slate entered for the 27 National Convention delegates to be elected. None of them can afford to make a poor showing.

The same three men were in the Wisconsin primary four years ago along with the late Wendell L. Willkie. The State had 24 delegates. Dewey got 15, Stassen 4 and MacArthur 3. Willkie got none and withdrew from the Republican presidential race.

The importance attached to these primaries was pointed up Saturday when Dewey suddenly announced that he will make campaign speeches in both Wisconsin and Nebraska. Previously, most of his campaigning was done by two of his top political advisers, Hamilton Gaddis and Hickman Powell.

MacArthur's banner was carried principally by Wisconsin Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman and former Gov. Philip Lafollette. Zimmerman was a Dewey man in 1944.

Dewey needs a comfortable majority this time to prove he hasn't lost any ground. Stassen needs something to offset the way Dewey overshadowed him in the New Hampshire primary March 9. In that race Dewey got six delegates and Stassn got two.

The Wisconsin primary is MacArthur's first test this year. It is his home state. If he can't win a majority of the delegates there he is not likely to do much better elsewhere.

The Nebraska primary will provide a popularity poll on seven potential GOP nominees. In addition to Dewey, Stassen and MacArthur the field includes Senators Taft of Ohio and Vandenberg of Michigan, Gov. Earl Warren of California and House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts.

Defense Plans May Possibly Affect Tax Cut

By the Associated Press

Congress expects President Truman to veto the $4,800,000,000 income tax-cutting bill this week. It also expects to make the measure law over his veto.

A few lawmakers still contended a Presidential message hammering at plans for new and big spending for military preparedness could swing enough votes to sustain a tax slash dissent. But most of the big majorities which passed the bill overwhelmingly in the House and Senate appeared to be standing pat against arguments of that kind.

It takes a two-thirds majority in both chambers to override a veto. The Senate had 18 votes over that margin on passage of the bill. The House had 51.

Mr. Truman has until April 5—a week from today—to act on the bill. But he is not expected to wait until the last minute.

The bill would reduce the taxes of all of the 52 million taxpayers and 7,400,000 of them would come off the rolls, mainly because the measure increases personal exemptions from the present $500 to $600. It also would cut tax rates from 12.6 per cent for persons with the smallest income to 5 per cent for those with the largest.

Another provision allows husbands and wives in all States to split their incomes for tax purposes, making the levy less on incomes generally over $5000.

Viewers of German Art Fear Loss of Pictures to Russians

God knows where they will end up if they go back to Germany."

Hough said he thought the pictures would be more helpful to America than to Germany at present.

Richard Sansona, 30, of 1483 Newton st. nw., shared Hough's opinion.

"I believe they should stay here where they'd be more appreciated," he said.

"I thought the pictures were very good. I don't have any favorites, though. The majority of the time I couldn't get close enough."

Sansona, floor manager at the Chevy Chase Ice Palace, who was in Germany with the Seventh Army Signal Corps during the war, said he preferred the large paintings because of the detail, which he found impressive.

Opal Ruth Coble, 28, a Wave yeoman in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations, said the most interesting paintings were the ones of which she had previously heard.

"I especially liked the Botticelli paintings," she said.

"The detail in them was marvelous. You could see almost every hair."

Miss Coble, who comes from Elizabethtown, Pa., said she would "like to see the Germans get them back, but I would hate to have the Russians get them."

Jose Ganzon, of 2615 K st. nw., a native of the Philippines, praised the Government for "giving the public an opportunity to see these works of real merit. It is quite a treat.

"Sending them back," he said, "depends on public policy and the trend of events."

Thelma Johnson, 28, of 7556 Alaska ave. nw., secretary, said "it would be a good idea if the pictures remained here until conditions in Europe are more settled.

"I like the exhibit," she said, "but was a little disappointed that there were not more scenic pictures."

Phyllis Benjamin, 13, of 1360 Jefferson st. nw., an eighth grade schoolgirl liked a "Madonna and Child" by Raphael best. "It was very pretty and the face of the child looked so sweet.

"I also liked Joachim Patinir's 'Rest on the Flight into Egypt,'" she said, consulting her catalogue. "The cherubs looked so real and cute."

Phyllis, who visited the Gallery with a cousin, Paula Katz, 11, of Newark, N. J., said, "Our teacher told us we should see the exhibit, because it would cost a lot of money to go to Berlin to see it. They should leave the paintings here longer because everyone is not getting to see them."

Sailors Russell Ripple, 19, fireman 1/c from Fort Wayne, Ind. and Ernest Taberner, 21, electrician's mate 3/c from Leicester, Mass., said they had no favorites in the collection, but spent the most time looking at a picture with a lot of architectural detail.

Chiang Says Tolerating Reds Caused War

Nanking, March 28 (AP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today blamed China's civil war on his tolerance of the Communists during the Japanese invasion, but said it was a mistake he would not make again.

The Chinese chieftain spoke at a farewell meeting of the People's Political Council, formed as a government advisory body ten years ago.

"I have committed many blunders during those ten years," he said, "but the worst was my tolerance toward the Communists.

Granted Privileges

"I allowed them to take part in the People's Political Council and gave them other privileges which resulted in our present civil war.

"However, I am confident we will not repeat this mistake."

Chiang admitted his concern over the present state of affairs, but asserted, "in my opinion, both the international and national situations—clouded though they may be—were more unfavorable in 1938 than today."

This was challenged by Chang Po-Ling, chairman of the meeting, who warned Chiang:

"The general morale of our people is lower today than 10 years ago. Be as it may that the situation is better, we must admit that the people are most unhappy."

Safety "More Secure"

Chiang reminded the council that when it was formed "we lacked even a national capital," and said, "I sincerely believe the national safety is more secure today than at the beginning of the war with Japan."

From the floor, however, Suiyuan Province members appealed to him to get them 100,000 rifles "to arm our people against the Reds." The council unanimously indorsed Chiang for the presidency of China.

The national assembly, successor to the council, is due to meet Monday to elect the nation's first constitutional president and vice president.

The assembly is due for a dubious start. Less than half the membership of 2151 is present, and a small but militant group of claimants to seats is threatening fireworks.

Ten of these claimants were on a combination sitdown and hunger strike in the assembly hall.

PACEMAKER - with a new kind of pull

TAKE a searching look beneath the smart lines of this brawny traveler and you'll meet up with things you'll itch to get your hands on.

For this is the Buick ROADMASTER, biggest of all the Buicks and lively as few cars of its inches are.

That broad, stretching bonnet is packed to the brim with brilliant Fireball power – up to 150 hp. of it.

It is velvety smooth power, too, made cushiony and quiet by Buick's new Hi-Poised engine mountings that smother vibration build-up and make engine sensation virtually imperceptible.

It is power in beautiful balance with ride-steadying roadweight – power so great that with all the bulk and size of this eighteen-foot beauty, it is one of the liveliest performers on the road, a giant obedient and gentle even under a woman's light touch.

There's the room here of three-person seats – the traveling quiet of Sound-Sorber top lining – the soft, easy stride of all-coil springing and over-size low-pressure tires on extra wide rims.

There's the pace-making style of a long and graceful carriage so distinguished in every detail, that it needs no name plate to identify it unfailingly.

And with all this, here is the only car in the world in which you can get Buick's wonderful new Dynaflow Drive.*

Only in ROADMASTER can you get the utter smoothness, the quick, easy get-away, the silken flexibility of Dynaflow, the drive in which liquid replaces both the clutch and the usual low-second-high gear sequence of the conventional transmission.

Obviously, for a pace-making buy, the smart move is to see your Buick dealer – with or without a car to trade – and get your order in.

WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

Equal Justice

There seems to be a good chance that the Supreme Court will decide the issue of whether citizens of the District of Columbia have any rights in Federal Courts outside the District. The lower courts which have passed on this issue are widely divided. Three Federal District Courts have upheld the act of 1940 in which Congress undertook to give citizens of the District and of the Territories the right to sue citizens of the States in Federal Courts. Eight other Federal District Courts and two Circuit Courts of Appeals have decided otherwise, but with a vigorous dissent from the senior circuit judges in each of the appealed cases. Considering the importance of the issue and the diversity of decisions in the lower courts, the argument for a Supreme Court ruling seems to us very strong.

As to the good sense and justice behind the act of 1940, there is no question whatever. The founding fathers recognized the gross unfairness of requiring the citizens of Virginia, for example, to sue citizens of New Jersey in New Jersey courts. They provided, in such cases, that suits could be entertained in the Federal Courts. Since there was no District of Columbia at the time, the fathers neglected to say specifically that the same right to a fair settlement of legal controversies should extend to citizens of the Capital yet to be created. They did say, however, that Congress should have power "to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever" over the Capital-to-be, in addition to the power to pass all laws necessary and proper to carry out this function.

It seems to us that the majority of Circuit Court judges have been too much concerned with "narrow literalness" in shaping their rulings on this issue. Judge John J. Parker of the Fourth Circuit pointed out in his dissent that Congress has ample power to create special courts in the States to hear the suits of District residents in diversity-of-citizenship cases. Does it not, then, also have power to confer similar jurisdiction upon the Federal Courts which it has previously created outside of the District? On issues of this sort the courts often have to look beyond one specific phrase in the Constitution to the entire substance of that charter of government. The application of this broader view seems to have become the special function of the Supreme Court. Citizens of the District are eagerly hoping, therefore, that the Supreme Court will grant the request of Solicitor General Perlman for a review of lower-court rulings on this important issue.

Favored Tourists

The British are making a bid for tourist trade by offers to supply foreign visitors with special voucher books permitting purchases up to $100 or its equivalent in foreign currencies of rationed clothing items. Tourists bringing into the country their own automobiles or buying new British automobiles will also be given liberal gasoline allowances—enough for 1000 miles of driving during the first month of their stay. Judged from a strictly economic viewpoint, this relaxation of the rigors of austerity is no doubt justified, since it is intended primarily to attract Americans and encourage them to leave more dollars in the country. Purchases of British goods by foreign visitors can properly be regarded as a kind of export transaction, and so long as the British remain on short rations in order to stimulate exports, it seems rational enough to permit some buying on the spot by foreigners.

Sensible though this procedure may appear as a device for obtaining dollars, it seems to us psychologically unwise to encourage tourists to buy clothing while the severely rationed British have to put up with shabby garments. The mere sight of fortunate aliens shopping about is almost certain to create resentment not only against individuals but against their country. And that means against the United States. Even more irritating, we feel sure, will be the spectacle of American visitors touring the country on pleasure bent, while the inhabitants, denied even a gallon of gasoline for pleasure driving, are forced to patronize public conveyances or go about on foot.

It is our belief that American tourists intending to spend their vacations in countries where goods are rationed should scrupulously avoid giving offense. They can do this only by submitting to the restrictions imposed upon the resident population. That is a good rule for insuring a welcome reception, and it is also the best way to have a good time. For only a minority of insensitive people really enjoy being set apart from their fellow men and allowed privileges denied to others merely because they happen to be the possessors of coveted dollars.

Our Trade With Russia

In tightening controls over shipments of goods to Russia the sole purpose of the Administration is to prevent such exports from contributing directly to Russia's war potential. It is not the purpose of the Administration to place an embargo on all trade with the Soviet government. And if we were to do so, the Russians would undoubtedly retaliate by refusing to sell us the manganese and chrome that at present constitute about half of all our imports from Russia.

Representative Mundt is evidently aware of the probable consequences of adopting his proposal to embargo shipments to Russia of machine tools and other goods that might conceivably be used in the manufacture of implements of war. For he buttresses his demand for tighter controls by a proposal to abandon importation of Russian manganese and chrome forthwith. The United States, he says, can be "completely self-sufficient" in manganese and plenty of chrome is available in Turkey.

Eventually we may be able to develop other sources of supply of these metals at considerable cost to ourselves. But those future supplies will not satisfy the pressing needs of the critical months that lie ahead. For the time being the United States is almost wholly dependent upon imports of these strategic metals, and Russia is one of our important sources of supply. Secretary Harriman bluntly states that this country would be "very much embarrassed" if Russian chrome and manganese were to be suddenly cut off. As a matter of fact, he fears that the new restrictions, considered too soft by Representative Mundt, may result in suspension of shipments of these metals by Russia. In that event the Secretary will ask Congress to authorize a system of import controls applicable to Russia. Armed with the power to restrict or forbid the importation of Russian goods, it might then be possible to bring pressure to bear on Russia to induce resumption of sales of chrome and magnesium as a condition of obtaining needed American goods.

Putting trade with Russia on a restricted barter basis, as Secretary Harriman aims to do, would preserve for us some of the advantages that we now derive from that trade. However, the possibility of averting a Russian embargo on materials essential for our own steel production will depend largely upon our willingness to supply Russia with commercial products that she requires in exchange. It is a foregone conclusion that if we turn from the selective licensing of exports as a legitimate defense of our national interests to sweeping, indiscriminate embargoing of shipments to Russia, the Russians will reply in kind. We strongly suspect that the United States stands to lose a good deal more than Russia by engaging in this kind of all-out economic warfare.

Anti-Poll Tax Bill

It is not necessary to accept all the excited statements made by opponents of the anti-poll-tax bill to see that it is a bad piece of legislation. The bill owes its popularity to the fact that it seeks to bring about an over-due reform. We heartily agree with its sponsors that all taxes as prerequisites to voting should be abolished. The preferable method is action by the States. Since a few States are stubbornly holding out against abolition of this undemocratic requirement upon voters, however, we should be delighted to see Congress propose and the States ratify an anti-poll-tax amendment to the Constitution. At least two resolutions for this purpose are before the House. But these are not the proposals that are being advanced by vote-hungry members of Congress. The bill accepted by the House and now under study by the Senate Rules Committee is an attempt to amend the constitutional requirement as to the qualifications of voters by act of Congress.

The Constitution says in unmistakable terms that the voters entitled to choose Congressmen "in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature." This does not give the States power to prescribe the qualifications of voters for members of Congress as such. It simply makes use of the various yardsticks laid down by the States to serve a Federal purpose. Since that requirement of the Constitution no longer meets with public approval, it can be changed, but surely a constitutional amendment is the proper way to effect the change.

The anti-poll-tax bill attempts to effect the desired reform by changing the meaning of words in the Constitution—an underhanded and undemocratic process. It says that the requirement of paying a poll tax before voting "shall not be deemed a qualification of voters or electors voting or registering to vote at primaries or other elections for said officers, within the meaning of the Constitution, but is and shall be deemed an interference with the manner of holding primaries and other elections for said national officers and a tax upon the right or privilege of voting . . ." If this bill were law, citizens in the poll-tax States could vote for Congressmen without payment of a poll tax. But the same citizens could not vote for members of the "most numerous branch of the State Legislature." The requirement of the Constitution as to who shall vote for Congressmen would thus be clearly defeated.

We recognize that it is more difficult to pass a constitutional amendment than a simple act of Congress. But expediency has seldom been recognized in the United States as a valid substitute for principle. At a time when we are engaged in a world-wide struggle against short-cuts to power it seems especially deplorable that the Congress should be advancing so devious a scheme to accomplish a desirable reform.

Free Information

It is perhaps inevitable that the United Nations Conference on Freedom of Information which began Tuesday in Geneva should be overshadowed by more momentous events. Indeed, it seems a little academic to debate ways of implementing human rights when the very existence of those rights and of all free institutions is challenged by the spread of the police state. And yet, if some sort of basic agreement on the principles of free information can be achieved, that agreement may serve to strengthen free nations in the larger struggle. This means, of course, some sort of agreement as between the nations of the non-Russian world, since it is futile to hope for any acceptable compromise with the Soviet.

Our differences with Russia over freedom of information are clear cut. Obviously those differences are semantic as well as procedural. It is unnecessary to recite the Soviet insistence on positive "duties" of press and radio to combat "warmongering" and "Fascist propaganda" and the complete inflexibility on those attributes we regard as essential to free information. Here there can be no compromise. But what American delegates at Geneva are likely to find difficult is to reach an accommodation with countries outside the Soviet sphere. Some of these nations, such as France, have had experience with the abuses of a venal party press and may be expected as a consequence to try to write press responsibility into an international compact. Such a concept is, of course, antithetical to American tradition; under our own system we have learned that responsibility is something evolved by the press itself without governmental interference. The delegates may well recognize a moral obligation of the press to present truthful and comprehensive information, but any attempt to formalize this obligation in law would infringe a cardinal American principle.

If this barrier can be overcome, there are a number of points the non-Soviet delegates can usefully discuss. Among these are free access to information for correspondents of all nations, freedom of entry and travel, abolition of restrictions on free interchange of newspapers, books and periodicals and the abolition of peacetime censorship. Any agreement to facilitate interchange of information on these lines will help solidify the cause of human rights. In this connection, happily, the State Department has revoked the atrocious ban that had been placed on one of the American delegates. Originally Harry Martin, the president of the American Newspaper Guild and a recognized anti-Communist, was denied a passport—possibly as a result of congressional intimidation—because some years ago he had contributed to the Southern Conference for Human Welfare. Had this stigma been permitted to stand, the American delegation would have been in a poor position indeed to talk about freedom of information.

And Still We Save

Despite high living costs, the volume of new savings by individuals last year amounted to 11 billion dollars, according to Federal Reserve Board estimates. That was a decided drop from the nearly 15 billion saved in 1946 and far below the 35 billion top level reached in wartime. However, it is not only a very large sum compared with prewar savings but the total amount of savings represents a larger proportion of disposable income (that is, income after deduction of taxes) than had ever been attained before the war. Moreover, these new savings constitute additions to a huge volume of savings accumulated during the war years, when prices were lower and fewer goods, especially durable goods, were available for purchase. Thus it appears that by and large the consuming public has not yet been seriously pinched by rising prices, although a good many individuals with fixed incomes from investment or annuities and some classes of workers whose wage increases have not kept pace with rising living costs have been compelled to draw on accumulated savings, borrow or reduce their living standards.

Nevertheless, the drop in the volume of individual savings, coinciding with large new investment demands, has been an important factor in the recent rise in money rates. And the new investment demands in turn have been stimulated by a sustained high level of consumer buying that is in part responsible for the drop in the volume of new savings. The March Federal Reserve Bulletin notes that the funds saved by individuals in 1947 were not only insufficient to satisfy new investment demands for funds, but holders of accumulated savings showed greater reluctance to invest accumulated savings elsewhere than in Government bonds or insurance and pension funds. Indirectly, of course, high living costs help to account for that reluctance, since the fear that prices will go still higher emphasizes the desirability of keeping savings in the form of liquid assets readily available for emergency use. As a result of this combination of reduced savings and disinclination to take investment risks demands on the banks have been steadily increasing, thereby adding to the supply of purchasing power and increasing inflationary pressures.

Civil Rights Now

In response to those who suggest that we "ease up on civil rights," who say "education . . . will ditch and drain off the sources of injustices and dangers" and who "doubt the wisdom of trying to force the ideals contained in the civil rights program by legislation before the people are morally or spiritually prepared to accept them," I might ask when will this be achieved?

We have not been able to secure civil rights without legislation, so I ask, is it wise not to legislate? Is it wise to go on denying civil rights in a country founded upon a democratic philosophy? As long as we fail at home to be a living example of this principle the peoples of the world will not have confidence in the democracy we advocate abroad. This denial, it seems to me, plays directly into the hands of the Communists.

If we could wait until "the people are morally or spiritually prepared" we would have little need for legislation, I believe, because we would act according to our principles and regard the welfare and rights of other men to be as essential as our own. So is it not for the precise reason that we have not achieved such moral and spiritual preparedness that we do need legislation to narrow the gulf between our practices and our principles and to secure the rights promised in our American heritage of freedom and equality? It is true the real change must come from the heart. Legislation will not bring perfect justice, but to say that it is unwise or impossible seems not only to get the cart before the horse, but in my mind seems to weaken the whole legislative process.

We must approach this vital problem through "good school teachers and plenty of money to pay them," through "an all-out program of basic education," and through every medium available, including legislation, the discussion and enactment of which, it seems to me, is also a process of education.

Church And State

I am sure that many of those devoted to the principle of uncompromising separation of church and state are very grateful to William H. Wranek, jr., for his letter of March 18 giving a clear view of Thomas Jefferson's application of that principle to the founding of the University of Virginia. In a recent release advocating the exploration of the possibility of incorporating a neutral treatment of religious factors into public school curricular subjects to which they are pertinent, Protestants and Other Americans United were suggesting a potential up-to-date application of Jefferson's method.

I should be pleased to offer a similar excerpt from the writings of one of Thomas Jefferson's illustrious contemporaries — James Madison, author of the First Amendment. I offer this quotation with especial reference to the letter submitted by Gerard D. Sevigny on March 20 in which he said, "If the Protestant group for separation of church and state is really in earnest, let it demand that we stop paying the chaplains of our armed forces out of public funds. . . . If each denomination had to support its own ministers and priests the chaplaincy would greatly be improved. . . ."

One of the foremost Protestant publications, Christian Century (of which Dr. C. C. Morrison of POAU was formerly an editor), is advocating that very course—claiming that the present arrangement is a direct abrogation of the First Amendment. Recent critics of POAU have complained that, in its demands for a strict interpretation of the First Amendment, the group is going beyond the intent of our founding fathers. Madison said: "Is the appointment of chaplains to the two House of Congress consistent with the Constitution, and with the pure principle of religious freedom?

"In strictness the answer on both points must be in the negative. The Constitution of the United States forbids everything like an establishment of a national religion. The law appointing chaplains establishes a religious worship for the national representatives, to be performed by ministers of religion, elected by a majority of them; and these are to be paid out of the national taxes. Does not this involve the principle of a national establishment applicable to a provision for a religious worship for the constituent is well as of the representative body, approved by the majority and conducted by ministers of religion paid by the entire Nation?

"The establishment of the chaplainship to Congress is a palpable violation of equal rights as well as of constitutional principles. . . . Better to disarm in the same way the precedent of chaplainships for the Army and Navy, than erect them into a political authority in matters of religion."

"Between The Extremes"

No one can take exception with the statement in your editorial of March 22 that the Hutchins committee's world constitution has little relation to present-day realities. This constitution offers a formula whereby men can live together in peace and brotherhood. Neither peace nor brotherhood are present-day realities. War and hate are in the ascendancy.

Mr. Truman's policy of containment, Mr. Wallace's policy of appeasement, Colonel McCormick's policy of isolationism—all have one thing in common: all lead to war. Out of the next war—an atomic war—will emerge not one Rome but two Carthages; mankind will march into a new Dark Age.

There is only one hope for a just peace. There is the hope that a governmental structure, democratic and federal, can be erected which can contain and peacefully resolve the conflict between American free enterprise and Russian communism.

Such a structure can be neither communistic nor capitalistic. It must be democratic; it must respect and be respected by the people. It must be federal; it must have power only over matters of international concern, all other powers being reserved to the member states.

This is not a glorified U. N., deriving its power from and enforcing its power over nations. Such a government has never provided a just peace. This is a democratic federal world government, deriving its power from and enforcing its power over people.

This way to peace is what the committee to frame a world constitution proposes.

This idea may not be so unrealistic as it, at first, seems. World government is inevitable. The world is too small for it to be otherwise. It will come relatively soon and it will come one of two ways. It will either come through force and conquest or it will come through rational and concerted effort of people everywhere. It will either be a world tyranny or a world democracy. In working for a democratic federal world government now, world federalists are working to avert world tyranny.

Mr. Hume's Criticisms

I think that it is about time someone came to the defense of your excellent music critic, Mr. Hume—particularly in regard to the present National Symphony. Every time he performs his duties as a music critic and points out weaknesses in the programs and performances of the National Symphony, he is immediately attacked by Dr. Kindler's personal friends of the National Symphony Orchestra Association. Unfortunately, these letters never answer the questions or objections that Mr. Hume has raised . . .

The weird programming incidentally, makes the National Symphony's pretensions toward being considered as a major orchestra of this country seem ridiculous. Any orchestra that neglects to program one major choral work (despite the fact that there are five superb choruses in Washington alone) or more than two or three major contemporary works can hardly hope to compare with the orchestras of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The most disturbing part of this whole situation, though, is lack of interest of the association and Dr. Kindler in trying to reconcile the large groups of critics of the National Symphony. Their attempts to characterize these critics as musical nincompoops and ultra-conservatives are silly and certainly don't fill Constitution Hall or add to the sustaining fund . . .

Walter Bruce Howe, defender of Dr. Kindler, in his letter of March 21, failed to answer a question that has puzzled Paul Hume, myself, and others, namely: "Why has not Mr. Kindler yet presented Copland's The Quiet City?" Presumably the first trumpet player still has that fever blister.

Virginia Poll Tax

The Washington Post carried an Associated Press story on March 24 which stated: "Repeal of the poll tax now is pending, Tuck told the committee . . ."

Like most other members of the Byrd-Tuck Democratic political "machine" in Virginia, Governor Tuck is careful not to mention that the poll tax repeal measure to be offered the voters by referendum in November, 1949, contains provisions which are calculated to discourage and limit voting even more than the poll tax does.

The obnoxious features the people of Virginia must accept if they adopt the proposed constitutional amendment abolishing the poll tax include:

1. Annual registration. Under the present law, registration is permanent.

2. Registration would have to be completed four months prior to elections.

3. The network of precinct registrars would be abolished in favor of a three-man board in each county. Thus people would have to travel greater distances and be away from their work more hours to register.

4. A State board of registrars would have power without appeal to remove members of local registration boards. This would give the State board a powerful hold on the local boards.

Governor Tuck says repeal of the poll tax should be a matter for State action. No doubt State action in this matter would be the best way, but as long as a State is controlled by demagogic politicians who would force on the people a choice such as the one described above—without even telling the people what it really means—then perhaps to get away from the poll tax it will be necessary for the Federal Government to take a hand.

The Native Tongue

THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE: SUPPLEMENT II: An inquiry into the Development of English in the United States; by H. L. Mencken. (Knopf. $7.50.)

It is now nearly 30 years since the first publication of Mr. Mencken's celebrated philological treatise. Since then it has been four times revised, corrected and expanded in the light of new materials gathered by the indefatigable author. Three years ago the earlier chapters of The American Language were elaborated in a large volume to which he gave the name of Supplement 1; the present volume does the same for the later chapters, so that the supplementary materials are now about twice as large as the parent work. In his preface to the final revision of The American Language, published in 1936, Mr. Mencken felt obliged to abandon his original thesis that the disparities between English as spoken in the United States and English as spoken in Great Britain had grown so numerous that the two idioms were on their way to becoming wholly different languages. He had found that since 1923 the tendency was in the other direction; that is to say, many of the dissimilarities were disappearing, and Mr. Mencken attributed this to the influence of American English on the mother dialect.

Yet much of the evidence assembled by Mr. Mencken in the present supplement seems to sustain the opinion of Professor McKnight and others that of the two idioms the American is the more timid and conservative and less hospitable to change. It evinces, that is, to a greater degree the artificial restraints of the schoolroom and the library. There are even places where Mr. Mencken appears to admit as much. The schoolma'm, he writes, "needs a favorable environment to work her will upon her charges, but in the United States she has always had it, for Americans, from the days of their beginning, have vastly esteemed so-called education and accepted precept and example so docilely that their culture has inclined more and more toward a Nation-wide uniformity." But many of the peculiarities of American pronunciation which have successfully defied the influence of the schools seem also to indicate an inherent conservatism. Mr. Mencken, for example, mentions a campaign waged in the 70s and 80s of the last century under the leadership of a pedagogue named Richard Grant White to reform the enunciation of vowel sounds according to the prevalent British standard, which happily had no permanent effect.

There is reason to believe that the characteristic American shortening of the vowels is in some cases at least a survival of sixteenth century English inflection. Anyway, shortened vowel sounds now appear to have the greater vitality, and Mr. Mencken tells us that even in those parts of the eastern United States where the broad, or British, "a" sound had been traditional in certain words, it is being replaced by the flattened sound. The former habit of many rustic Americans of substituting the broad "a" for "e" in words like "certain," "clergy," "serpent," "learn," and so on, now seems to have disappeared except for one surviving example, "sergeant." An English authority quoted by Mr. Mencken thinks that even in Britain the shorter "a" sound for words like "bath" and past" will prevail. Another marked difference between English and American pronunciation is the sharper utterance by Americans of the consonant "r," particularly in the Midwest and West; but this habit, too, appears more ancient than the modern Southern English habit of slurring or muting the consonant.

Mr. Mencken's original case for existence of American as a distinct language seemed to rest mainly upon what he calls the "Common Speech," meaning the vernacular of those Americans who have been least subject to pedagogic and literary influences. This vernacular, as he shows, has its own uniformities which, however they may shock the fastidious ear, provide it with a recognizable grammar and syntax. But once again an inherent American conservatism is evident, for Mr. Mencken shows that many of the seeming solecisms of the Common Speech are actually survivals of obsolete English dialectical forms. The Common Speech has shown a certain sturdy resistance to the influence of Hollywood and the radio, but whether it will survive the grandiose new programs of mass education is a question into which Mr. Mencken does not enter, though perhaps he intends to do so in still another supplement. It appears to be mainly in the realm of slang that Americans show the genius for improvisation with which they are so often credited; but Mr. Mencken's chapter on the subject shows how highly perishable are most of these inventions. Mr. Mencken is not certain whether it is possible to draw any line between pure slang and professional argot, but his examples suggest that, with certain rare exceptions, the only words of slang that become permanently absorbed into the language are those which provide vivid and appropriate terms for new technical processes and devices and new trades and specialties. However, this valuable and salutary function of slang becomes fully evident by contrast to the new and barbarous official and journalistic practice, imitated from the Germans and Russians, of manufacturing neologisms from the initial letters or from the initial syllables of new bureaucratic institutions, as, for example, Gestapo, Ogpu, Wac, Wave, Unesco, and so on. It is difficult to say whether this is more or less horrendous than the practice of employing abbreviations as if they were actually names, as FBI, OED, OSS, ADA, OWI, CIO, and, to mention one of Mr. Mencken's choicer discoveries, ZIDEBOEWABEW.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

In Self-Protection

THE MOUNTING tension has brought with it a spirit of fatalism—a feeling that events may be beyond our control, even perhaps beyond the control of Stalin and the Soviet government. There is no warrant in the situation for such helplessness and hopelessness unless we become rattled and first lose control of ourselves. This country is so nearly invulnerable, and its potential power, moral and material, is quite sufficient to enable us to take the view that we shall hold firmly for ourselves the right to decide not only if we shall act, but when, where, how, and for what end.

Lippmann

The spirit of fatalism is merely a reflection of the fact that we have for so long a time been carrying on a policy which is generalized, vague, defensive and inconclusive, that our efforts are dispersed and not directed, that behind them there is no strategical plan and no clear diplomatic objective. When the Administration has clarified its purposes and its conceptions and its objectives, as it must if it is to regain the initiative and the control of events, fatalism will give way to resolution and confidence.

BUT OF all the causes of the fatalistic feeling that we are no longer the masters of our destiny, that modern man is obsolete, the Western civilization is perishing, none perhaps is so insidious as the contemporary doctrine of total war. It is of the utmost importance that this doctrine—which is so universally accepted—be re-examined, and particularly by our military leaders and our diplomats.

For it may be true, and I venture to think it is true, that this doctrine is a military heresy, a legacy of Hitler's satanic genius, profoundly inapplicable to the conflict with Russia, and fatal to those who, like Hitler, would entertain it.

THE DOCTRINE of total war is, like most heresies, a half truth. It is true that in any large, modern war the whole population and its whole resources will be engaged, and that there is no such thing as the exemption of civilians or their immunity. But it is not necessarily true that war waged with total effort must be waged for total ends—for the absolute, unlimited destruction of the enemy state and the total subjection of its population. The German war, alas, was fought to a total end because Hitler willed it that way, and was able to destroy any German successor government with which peace could have been negotiated. The European settlement has been made well-nigh impossible as a result.

But the Italian war, and even the Japanese war, were not fought for total but for limited ends. Verbally the surrenders were unconditional. In fact the Italians have, and the Japanese will get a negotiated peace. Can there be any question that this outcome is preferable? And does this not prove that even in the modern age a total war need not necessarily be absolute, unlimited, and total?

THE EXPERIENCE of history shows, I think, that Russia has often been defeated in limited wars for limited objectives but that those who, like Napoleon and Hitler, wage total war against the Russians are disastrously defeated. There is no reason to think that modern weapons would produce a different result. The Russian empire is a far more powerful military state than it has ever been before. It is better organized and disciplined to wage total war and to resist it.

Our military leaders, therefore, have a very special responsibility to see to it that the civilian leaders and our people generally do not, even if it comes to war, commit this country to an unlimited war, which if it could be won at all, could be won only at a cost of blood and treasure which would make the victory ruinous. For the American people are particularly susceptible to the dangerous, perhaps fatally dangerous, heresy of total war for total ends, and they are in great need of firm and lucid guidance from their trusted military leaders, like Secretary Marshall himself, like Eisenhower, Bradley, and one may hope MacArthur as well.

THE AMERICAN civilian population is susceptible to the heresy of unlimited war in many ways. There is the idealistic tradition, which Wilson formulated, that this country cannot with a good conscience recognize any settlement which rests on a balance of power and the existence of spheres of special influence. The tradition holds that only one world of like-minded states is tolerable, and that all the arrangements which diplomatists have made in the past to accommodate the perpetual rivalry of nations are intolerable. This tradition, noble though it is in its purpose, is not compatible with peace in a world where great powers are not like-minded, and do not mean to be.

The tradition produces crusades, and to undertake a crusade against a giant power like Russia would surely mean interminable war for an unattainable objective. The susceptibility of the American people to crusades is dangerous because, as yet, we have never had the experience, which all older nations have had, of realizing the limits of our power.

We cannot afford not to realize them now, and therefore to make up our minds that if we become engaged in an armed conflict, we shall wage it for limited, concrete objectives, for a negotiated settlement which restores the balance of power and recognizes the existence of spheres of influences among the powers.

THEN WE shall not confuse the need for a total effort with the pursuit of total ends. Then we shall not allow the conflict to be blown up into a universal anti-Communist crusade. For that would commit us to the invasion and subjugation of Russia, and to the fearful bloody business of crushing civil wars all over the globe.

If through idealism, inexperience, righteous indignation and hysteria we entangle ourselves in such a commitment, history will say that we encompassed our own ruin, a thing which no external foe was capable of doing.

Arms For Western Union

THE NEXT STEP in the hardening American response to Soviet expansion is likely to be a revival of military lend-lease. The purpose of this step will be to give weight and meaning to "western union," the alliance of Britain, France and the Benelux countries. The measure has already been discussed at the highest level. The signs are that it will eventually be approved, and that the main question is one of timing.

In fact, the whole question was thoroughly threshed out in a Cabinet meeting before the President's recent speech to the Congress. Serious consideration was given to including a flat recommendation for revised military lend-lease in the President's speech. It was unanimously agreed in the Cabinet that some such step might eventually be both necessary and desirable. Yet it was finally decided that it would be a mistake to bring forward the proposal now. This decision was taken for two reasons.

THE FIRST REASON was the thoroughly practical matter of the probable reaction in the Congress. There were no illusions in the Cabinet that the draft and universal military training sections of the President's speech would be greeted with cheers. Many Congressmen would obviously be tempted to seize on a lend-lease proposal as a painless way out of the hard necessities of the situation. Secretary of State George C. Marshall feared that rearming of the western European countries would seem a politically agreeable substitute for the rearming of the United States.

Second, as Marshall pointed out to the Cabinet, the proposal would be premature. Western union, at the time of the President's speech, was still in the process of being born. An immediate American offer to arm the signers of the western union pact would inevitably be seized upon by the Soviet Union and the Communists. It would be displayed as further evidence of "American imperialism," and of an American desire to use the Europeans as "cannon fodder" in a war against the Soviets. Such an American offer thus might well be deeply embarrassing to the European leaders. Therefore Marshall argued that the initiative must come from the Europeans themselves.

In fact, there have already been official and tentative approaches from the French, looking toward American aid in re-equipping the weak French army. The military weakness of the French is symptomatic of the almost total military vacuum which now exists in western Europe. Most of the effective French forces are committed in Indo-China and North Africa. A mere handful of French troops remain on the continent, and their equipment is for the most part either nonexistent or obsolete. Few of the experts, including the French themselves, doubt that in case of war France, with the rest of Europe, could be quickly and easily occupied by the Red army. That is why serious consideration is now being given at the highest levels in Washington to a possible American offer to reequip completely 10 French divisions.

If this step is taken, it will be only the first in a series of measures designed to help western Europe regain, to use a favorite phrase of Secretary Marshall, "a military posture." Yet such an undertaking by the United States will in turn pose a number of problems of the gravest importance.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, a United States commitment to help rearm the western European countries can only be fulfilled if American armaments production is greatly increased. A partial American industrial mobilization might therefore be necessary. In the second place, military lend-lease to the western union nations will mean in fact that a tight military alliance has been concluded between this country and western Europe.

Such an alliance will call for joint planning between the military staffs of the United States and of the European countries. Detailed plans must be evolved for the over-all strategy, and for the disposition of troops and equipment in case of war. Two approaches to this problem are possible. Joint planning is already going forward between the United States and Britain, in the existing Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff, with headquarters in Washington. This could simply be enlarged to include France and the Benelux countries, as well as Italy, if Italy eventually joins western union. On the other hand, the western union pact opens the way for a European combined staff. Such a staff could be created, probably in Paris, and American officers attached to it.

In the first case, the United States would openly assume leadership in the new alliance, whereas in the second case, the emphasis would be on Europe. Under any circumstances, the conviction is growing that the military vacuum which now exists in western Europe must be filled, and the European balance of power, upset by the war, in some measure restored.

Economic Expert Sees Threat Of Inflation in Defense Plans

By The Associated Press

The President's Council of Economic Advisers finds a "sobering" threat of revived inflation in the proposed new spending of Federal funds for preparedness.

President Truman is expected to send to Congress this week a new budget estimate asking nearly four billion dollars more for fiscal 1949. This would be added to the $39,700,000,000 already scheduled for spending in new appropriations and carryover funds during the year starting July 1.

Quarterly Report Due

The council headed by Dr. Edwin G. Nourse will take its quarterly "memorandum" on the state of the economy to President Truman this week.

It has promised a "rather searching" appraisal of the stock and commodity market breaks and a further analysis of the inflationary effect of the steel price rise.

The proposed boost of possibly four billion dollars in spending may get priority in the report over both those items because of its potential effect on the Nation's business.

"You can't put that on top of a $6,205,000,000 foreign recovery program without a very strong inflationary push," Nourse told a reporter. "It is a very sobering situation.

Defense Plans a Factor

Defense developments heightened the chance that the council—and perhaps the White House later—will renew its plea for authority to control prices and wages and to ration scarce goods. Dr. Nourse declined comment on that topic.

Against the inflation pressure which new spending might generate, Government experts said, are business trends which hint at a slowdown—and in some cases a reversal—of the long postwar price upswing.

Official reports show that early Easter buying missed expectations in several areas. Signs of weakening in clothing and shoe prices were noted. Except for meat and butter, most food prices have not risen markedly since the February drop.

U. S. Return to Gold Standard Urged to End 'Abuse' of Public

By the United Press

A group of economists urged Congress yesterday to put gold coins back in circulation and end what it called the Government's "use and abuse of the public purse."

The 42-member Economists' National Committee on monetary policy said a return to the gold-coin monetary system would restore "integrity" in the Treasury's promise to redeem paper money now in circulation.

"Most of this money," it said, "carries promises to pay which are not honored, cannot under present laws and regulations be honored, and are, therefore, dishonored."

By returning to a gold-coin standard, it said, the United States would supply the leadership needed by other countries "struggling to reestablish sound bases for their money, industry and commerce."

Specifically, the committee recommended passage of a bill by Representative Buffet (R., Nebr.) to repeal the Gold Reserve Act that took gold coins out of circulation 15 years ago. The act was passed on recommendations of the late President Roosevelt to head off hoarding during the 1934 depression.

The Economists' Committee said that "irredeemable paper money" now in circulation depreciates the dollar's purchasing power in terms of goods and services by inviting issuance of more and more new money.

It argued that the Treasury's Fort Knox, Ky., gold hoard now is at record levels and is ample to back "an adequate volume of circulating media on a fully convertible basis if the Government follows a reasonably prudent course in the use of public funds. . . ."

Johnston Rejects Propaganda Ban

By The Associated Press

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, yesterday refused to ban the appearance of motion picture stars in propaganda films.

"This industry will not set a dangerous national example by limiting, curtailing or denying any of the sovereign rights of anyone connected with it," he wrote R. H. Poole, executive secretary of the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theater Owners.

Poole had sent Johnston a resolution adopted by his group's trustees "protesting the appearance of motion picture stars in political propaganda films, including newsreels."

Virginia Winners In Legion Contest Are Announced

Williamsburg, Va., March 28 (AP).—Dave Tinnin, of Warwick County High School, Hilton Village, won the American Legion-sponsored State oratorical contest here yesterday.

Tinnin, will receive a $500 scholarship, and is eligible to compete in regional oratorical competition at Charlotte, N. C.

Joyce Taylor, C. H. Friend High School, South Boston, won the State essay contest, and also will receive a $500 scholarship.

Second and third places in the oratorical contest went to Miss Julia Starkey, Blackstone High School, and Stephen F. Lichtonstein, Jefferson High School, Roanoke, respectively.

Lorraine Herron, Herndon High School, took second place in the essay competition, and Stuart Nottingham, Granby High School, Norfolk, won third.

Second-place winners received $100 cash; third-place winners $50.

Rangoon Communist Arms Seized in Raids

Rangoon, Burma, March 28 (U.P.).—Police today raided Communist headquarters and all known Communist cells throughout Rangoon and reportedly seized arms and an undisclosed number of party members. Top leaders, including Communist Chieftain Thankin Than Tun, escaped the dragnet.

Meanwhile, the Communist-inspired strikes against four foreign-owned companies, including the large Burma Oil Company, continued. The walkout at the latter plant virtually halted transportation in Rangoon. The government confiscated all the company's gasoline stocks but has not yet made any attempt to distribute it.

NLRB Bars Individual as Union 'Front'

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

A union whose officers have failed to sign anti-Communist affidavits can't get around the labor law by having an individual "front" for it, the National Labor Relations Board ruled yesterday.

Its decision, the first to deal with such a situation, involved the attempt of a former paid representative and official of the CIO Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers to appear on an election ballot.

What Act Says

The Taft-Hartley Act says that an individual, as well as a union, can act as representative of the employes in collective bargaining. The union is barred from a place on the ballot in an election of such a representative, however, if its officers have not executed affidavits that they are not Communists.

The F. T. A., notoriously left-wing dominated, did not comply with the oath provision.

In a scheduled representation election among employes of the Sacramento, Calif., plant of the Campbell Soup Co., a Mrs. Josephine Froehlich sought to intervene and have her name on the ballot as an individual.

Called Circumvention

But the NLRB found she was formerly an international representative of the F. T. A. and secretary-treasurer of the local union. She did not resign her official positions until a day after she filed her motion to intervene.

Furthermore, it was testified and not contradicted that at a meeting of the local union, officials announced that Mrs. Froehlich would act on behalf of the union, to circumvent the affidavit-filing provisions.

She was, in actuality, an agent of the union, the NLRB found. It refused to let her name appear on the ballot.

Child Conference Set Here for 1950

By the United Press

The Federal Security Agency announced yesterday that 250 State officials will meet here March 30 to April 1 to plan for a "White House Conference on Children and Youth" to be held in 1950.

Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau, said these conferences are held every 10 years. The purpose of the 1950 gathering, she said, is to discuss what is being done to prepare children for living in the atomic age, and what needs to be done to improve national, State and community services for children.

High Court Action Awaited In Ban on Union Politics

By the United Press

The Supreme Court is expected to announce today that it will decide the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley law's ban on union political activity.

The controversial issue, presented in a Government indictment of the CIO, is the first test of any phrase of the Taft-Hartley act to reach the high bench. The court is scheduled to end a two-week recess today.

At todays decision session, the tribunal also may rule on whether courts have the authority to enforce private real estate agreements which exclude Negroes and other minority groups from neighborhoods. The "restrictive covenant" issue has been appealed by Negroes in three cities.

Both the Government and the CIO are pushing for a speedy decision on the Taft-Hartley law section outlawing union expenditures in the political field. They want the issue settled before this year's primary and general elections.

The CIO deliberately invited prosecution when CIO President Philip Murray indorsed a congressional candidate in a Baltimore election last July. An editorial by Murray was printed in the CIO News and extra copies were circulated in the political district.

The Government appealed after Federal Judge Ben Moore on March 15 held the section unconstitutional. He said the ban violated free speech, freedom of the press and freedom of assembly.

Zoo Gets 12 New Penguins

Arrival yesterday of eight Emperor and four Adelie penguins gave the Washington Zoological Park the "finest collection of penguins in the world."

Dr. William M. Mann, director, also indicated proudly that his new boarders seem to be pretty fine specimens.

The 12 penguins came to town Easter morning, accompanied by Malcolm Davis, assistant head keeper of the Zoo in charge of birds. Davis captured the birds on a trip to the Antarctic aboard a Navy ice-breaker.

The eight Emperors, according to Dr. Mann, are the only ones in captivity. Largest of all species, they weigh upward of 40 pounds, and stand about 2½ feet high.

The Adelies, are the smallest species, weighing between 2 and 3 pounds, and being only 8 inches tall. Between the two are distributed the other species—the Macaroni, the Rock Hopper, the King, the Humboldt, and the Jackass.

Dr. Mann would make no promise about how long the Emperors may withstand captivity. Previous record for the birds was 11 months after capture, for penguins are very susceptible to respiratory disease, he explained. The Zoo set a record with its last Emperor penguin by keeping it more than six years. The bird died last summer.

The 12 penguins moved into a special air conditioned cage in the bird house with 12 of their fellows yesterday.

The two Humboldts are more hardy, and live outside. About half the penguins are moulting, and don't have much pep, according to Dr. Mann. The rest we have like all penguins—"they just stalk around."

White Sidewall Tires available at additional cost

There's A New Yardstick for Quality!

The new Cadillacs, now on display in our showrooms, are by far the finest Cadillacs ever built—and that means the world has a new yardstick for quality. For Cadillac has long been recognized as the leader in all the things which make a motor car desirable—and when Cadillac moves forward, the standard of automotive goodness moves forward with it. First, you will notice the new standard in beauty. From radiator to rear bumper there is a newness and freshness of design that strikes boldly out from the traditional—yet, in their solidity and magnificence, the new bodies are characteristically Cadillac. Interiors, too, are refreshingly original—yet typically Cadillac in their comfort and luxury. And Cadillac's outstanding performance—so long the envy of owners of other cars—has been carried still closer to perfection from every standpoint. Even those who know Cadillac best will be unprepared for the magnificent luxury these new cars provide. They represent, from many standpoints, one of the greatest steps forward in the history of the motor car. You are cordially invited to come in and see them.

GW Names Oklahoma City's Rowland Head Coach

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Sarasota, Fla., March 28.—Over at Lakeland the other day, it was startling to recall that the Tigers when last seen in the pennant race were the second best club in the league. At least, they finished second, which is fair evidence. But there's a general disposition to dismiss the Tigers as a pennant threat in 1948. Fact is, they don't add up to much importance in the reckoning.

POVICH

Pennant talk for the most part has dealt chiefly with the Yankees, who won it last year, and the Red Sox, who bought $400,000 worth of pitchers, and infielders from the Browns and hired Joe McCarthy as manager to mount a frontal assault on the Yankees. When there is mention of a dark horse, you hear the name of Cleveland. Somehow the Tigers are being arbitrarily dropped down as of little consequence despite their second-place finish last season.

The Tiger's troubles are generally recognized. They weren't a hitting club last season, and this spring they haven't hit a lick in their exhibition games. George Kell at third base is the only solid player in their infield, and as usual nobody knows the makeup of Steve O'Neill's outfield. And nobody knows, even, what the eccentric, near-genius Dick Wakefield will hit if at all.

THE NICE THING about the Tigers would appear to be their pitching. Hal Newhouser supposedly didn't have a hot season in 1947 when he could only break even in 34 decisions, and there's an impression that Newhouser has lost some of his magnificence. But blond Hal doesn't put in with that idea. He points to his earned run average of 2.87 and says "I pitched well enough to win 25 games with a better hitting club."

Newhouser mentions, among other things, a couple of games he lost to Walter Masterson of the Nats. "Masterson beat me 1-0 and 2-0 the only times I faced him. That's not bad pitching, but it goes into the record as two losses for me."

Freddie Hutchinson, who won 18 games last year is threatening to top Newhouser as the number one pitcher of the Tigers. Manager Steve O'Neill confidentially rates him the better one. They're a potent pair, Newhouser and Hutchinson, and now the Tigers have come up with Art Houtteman, who joined the club late last season, and won seven against two defeats. He beat the Yankees and the Red Sox twice each.

There are other good names on the Tigers' pitching staff—like Dizzy Trout and Virgil Trucks. Names like that carry weight. You have to consider 'em as good ones because they've been tough in the past. But there's a disturbing factor about that pair. Even with a second-place ball club last season, neither of 'em could break even in wins and losses.

O'NEILL, IN FACT, virtually gave up on Trout last year. He offered him to the White Sox for infielder Don Kolloway, and got no response. Trout took the limit of a 25 per cent salary cut when he signed this season, and took off 15 pounds even before he reported to camp, in an attempt to recapture a big-money contract.

At first base, the Tigers are operating with Paul Campbell, a cast off from the Red Sox who have had their own first base troubles. At second, Eddie Mayo, of the celebrated lame back, is still the best they can present. At shortstop, Eddie Lake still has the job despite his .211 batting figure of 1947. There's nothing impressive about the Tigers' infield until you get to third base, where George Kell was the club's only .300 hitter last season.

Temporarily, Dick Wakefield, has one of the jobs in the outfield. He's one of the Tigers' slew of young outfielders who haven't made good despite their promise . . . With him will be Hoot Evers, who was supposed to be whizz last year and wasn't quite, and the third job lies between Vic Wertz and Pat Mullin. Wertz is the latest supposed prodigy among Tiger outfielders who have been flopping all over the place.

THE TIGERS have another outfielder progidy in reserve. His name is John Groth and they gave him a lot of money for signing. He's been the hottest article in the Detroit camp, and they brought him up from Williamsport where he hit .319. If he belonged to the Nats, young Groth would stay with the club, but the Tigers do things differently. He'll go back to the minors for more seasoning.

Nobody on the Detroit club knows what to make of young Wakefield, incidentally. They all agree he should be a great ball player if he would buckle down to some serious trying. You hear that Newhouser and some of the club's other pitchers would give three cheers if they traded Wakefield to somebody.

Too much money may have spoiled Wakefield. In his first year with the club he banked most of $90,000 of which $52,000 was a bonus and $38,000 was his salary. He's been out in the late seasons to something like $15,000 a year but that doesn't bother him either. He batted .283 last season and thinks that wasn't bad. "I didn't get any lucky hits," he moans.

Trout Stops Yankees on 4 Hits, 7-1

Lakeland, Fla., March 28 (U.P.).—Paul (Dizzy) Trout of the Detroit Tigers hurled the first complete game of the spring training season today as the Bengals handed the New York Yankees at 7-to-1 trouncing.

Trout limited the Yanks to four hits and had a shutout going into the ninth inning when Joe DiMaggio tagged him for a home run. The Tigers jumped on Yankee starter Ed Lopat in the first inning for three runs on six hits. Bob Swift hit a homer in the eighth inning for the Tigers.

Incline, Eagle Eye Among Favorites as Rowe Memorial Opens Maryland Racing Today

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Maryland's 100 days of major track racing and its 100 nights of arguing about the same programs, begin today as nearby Bowie sends the horses rolling on Easter Monday. For a dozen days, the Prince Georges County track will hold attention before the big game swings to Havre de Grace and then on to Pimlico and the Preakness.

The $10,000 added Rowe Memorial, first of the four stake fixtures, features the inaugural day and may number a record in entries. The closed winter hereabouts seemed to point to a sparse list for the 6-furlong test, but when Racing Secretary John Turner, sr., checked the entries he found 18 horses in line.

Scratches may materialize, however, and the consensus calls for about a dozen or a baker's dozen to toe the mark when Starter Bill Schamehorn says "Go."

Washingtonians, both the betting and the rooting variety, are eyeing the Rowe with considerable interest. Joe Tucci, local boy who made good in the sinks and bathtub trade, will watch his Incline, Bowie stake winner last fall. Another Capitalite, Gustave Ring, who rang the bell in construction, will have a look-see at his Eagle Eye in action.

These two may draw the bulk of the play—and not for sentimental reasons, if you know what I mean.

Both Incline and Eagle Eye, fit as they are reported to be, will have to be at tops for the field includes running horses. For instance, Trainer Hirsch Jacobs will saddle Isadore Beiber's Flambeur, an importation from France who wintered and drilled for the race right at Bowie.

In addition, there's S. W. Labrot's Repand twice a winner at New Orleans; Clarence Hartwick's

Harbert's 273 Wins Crown in Charlotte Open

Charlotte, N. C., March 28 (AP). Melvin (Chick) Harbert, Detroit professional, won the $10,000 Charlotte open golf tournament today with a 273, 15 under par. He was one stroke ahead of defending Champion Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn.

Harbert clinched the $2000 top money when Middlecoff's bid for a birdie and a tie just missed. The Memphis dentist, who won here in a playoff a year ago, putted from 15 feet out on the short final hole and the ball stopped two inches away from the cup.

Two strokes back of Middlecoff was Lawson Little, veteran Cleveland pro, whose 71-72 finish gave him 276. Sharing fourth place at 278 were Toledo, Ohio, amateur Frank Stranahan and professionals Clayton Heafner, Charlotte and Tony Penna, Cincinnati.

Harbert had rounds of 66-66-70-71 over the 6410-yard, par 72 Myers Park Club course.

Knicks Beat Bullets, 79-69, Even Series

New York, March 28 (AP).—The New York Knickerbockers defeated Baltimore's Bullets, 79-69, today to even their best-of-three playoff series at one-all.

The final contest between the two second place clubs in the Basketball Association of America will be played in Baltimore Thursday.

Knicks Take Lead

The Bullets won the opener in Baltimore last night, 85-81. The winner will next meet the survivor of the playoff between the two third-place quintets, Chicago and Boston.

New York took an early 5-4 lead but 5 straight points by Connie Simmons of Baltimore put his team ahead, 10-5, at the five-minute mark. With John Palmer of New York hitting with his jump shots, the Knickerbockers fought back, but were trailing, 17-16, at the end of the first quarter.

New York couldn't pull ahead of the Bullets until two minutes before the half-time buzzer when Palmer scored with two straight jump shots to give his team a 33-30 lead at intermission.

Simmons Stars

The Knickerbockers opened the second half with 8 consecutive points, 6 of them by Sid Tanenbaum. Free throws by Buddy Jeannette and Kleggie Hermsen and baskets by Hermsen and Simmons brought the score to 43-36, but New York put together another string of 9 straight points and it was practically all over.

Simmons was high man for the game with 23 points, while Palmer took scoring honors for New York with 18. A crowd of 6854 was on hand.

Dodgers Win 14th Straight

Ciudad Trujillo, March 28 (U.P.). The Unbeaten Brooklyn Dodgers won their fourteenth straight exhibition game today and their ninth over Montreal, defeating the Royals 6 to 4 behind the flinging of Willard Ramsdell and Phil Haugstad.

Ramsdell, relying chiefly on his knuckleball, struck out six and yielded four hits in the six innings he worked.

Bosox Win, 10-5, at Nats' 'Ex-Spence'

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Sarasota, Fla., March 28.—The Nats held the Red Sox to two triples, four doubles and 10 singles today and pitched themselves into an easy 10-5 defeat. Ted Williams was out of the Boston line-up with a lame back, or it might have been even more decisive.

The Red Sox had a fair country substitute for Williams, however.

He was Stan Spence, the former Washington outfielder, who bashed the pitching of Early Wynn and Rae Scarborough for a single, double and triple and drove in three of the Red Sox's first five runs.

Spence played (1) first base for the Red Sox and (2) havoc with the Nats.

Even five Boston errors didn't affect the results much. They crammed five runs into the seventn inning against Scarborough to break a 5-5 tie and got the winning run while Gil Coan was chasing down a double by Johnny Pesky which got by him for a two-base error that moved Pesky home.

Nats Still Hitting

The Nats' batting attack consisted of nine hits off Mickey Harris in the first five innings, and one hit off Harry Dorish in the last four.

At one point, the Nats were in front 5 to 2. Eddie Yost's double and Early Wynn's single, plus a wild throw by Mele to the plate fixed up two runs in the second inning.

An error and hits by Vernon and Robertson moved another home in the fourth, and in the fifth after Vernon and McBride led off with singles, an error and Evans' single scored two more runs.

Wynn held the Red Sox to two runs for four innings and then they got tough with him, Spence particularly. Sheridan doubled and Pesky singled for one run, and after Moses walked, Spence unloaded the tying two runs. He

Colonials' New Mentor Brings Chief Aide Along

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

The kicked-around football coaching job at George Washington University came to rest again yesterday as the Colonials announced the acquisition of two, not one, "top-flight coaches."

John H. (Bo) Rowland, for the last two years head grid mentor at Oklahoma City University, agreed to a three-year contract as head coach after G. W. U. accepted his one proviso.

He insisted on retaining Eugene (Bo) Sherman, his Oklahoma City aide and a former pupil of his at Henderson College of Arkadelphia, Ark., as his chief assistant.

Sherman will toss aside a good chance for Rowland's spot at O. C. U. to come here. Besides handling the line coaching, he will act as freshman basketball mentor.

Rowland and Sherman are expected to fly to Washington for the Colonials' spring training, and probably will arrive Tuesday.

Max Farrington, graduate manager of athletics at George Washington, in making the Colonials' third important head coaching announcement in three weeks expressed himself as "highly pleased."

He first plunged seriously into a coach hunt when Neil (Skip) Stahley resigned after a 2-year tenure to take an assistant's post at the University of Washington.

Last week Farrington hired a coach for 34 hours, or the length of time it took Chauncey Simpson, University of Missouri backfield mentor, to accept the job and then change his mind with financial urging from Missouri.

Back to Single Wing

With the signing of Rowland, who "has looked over the G. W. situation and knows what he's getting into," according to Farrington, the Colonials can be expected to go back to the single wing formation installed by Stahley.

When Simpson was negotiating

JOHN "BO" ROWLAND

for the job G. W. was expected to switch to the split-T of Simpson's boss at Missouri, Don Faurot.

"We're not as vitally interested in types of offense," Farrington said yesterday, "as in getting an expert on whatever type we use. Rowland knows the single wing, as his record shows, and certainly Sherman will prove very valuable."

Whatever other aides Rowland hires will be "strictly up to him," Farrington insisted, although he expected the present staff to be retained at least throughout spring drills.

This includes Roger Antaya, Ray Hanken and Tim Swett, with some

D. C. Amvets Lose Thriller

TWO YOUNGSTERS from Durham, N. C., Worth Lutz and Wyatt Dixon, had big days yesterday at Jefferson Junior High School as Durham Post 12 team toppled Washington Post 4, 45-43, in the finals of the second annual AMVETS teen-age basketball tournament.

Lutz dropped a pair of foul shots in the "sudden-death" second overtime period of the bitterly contested game to climax an uphill drive that finally paid off. Then with the tension off, the 15-year-old Lutz burst into tears as he received the backslaps of his teammates.

Dixon, also 15, was equally effective.

He tossed in a basket with 30 seconds left in the regulation time to tie the score a 39-39 and send the game into overtime. Then he flipped in another basket 45 seconds before the end of the three minute extra period to deadlock the score at 43-43.

And to cap his performance, he led both teams in scoring with 13 points. For his outstanding play, Dixon was presented with a portable typewriter, while his team received a large gold cup and each member of the Durham squad was awarded a gold basketball.

Jeff Jackson paced the Washingtonians, who led almost all the way. Jackson made a pair of field goals and sank all eight of his free throw attempts. But even his fine efforts were not enough to offset the two Durham heroes.

Lookouts Lose To Nat Rookies

Winter Barder, Fla., March 28—Catcher Jake Early, who airplaned swiftly from the Brown camp when bought by the Senators, tripled two runs across in the second inning, here today as the Washington B team beat the Lookouts, 3-2.

Winning pitcher was Dick Weiff, young fastballer, who allowed one run in five innings and gave three hits.

Jim (Petrosky) Clark led the Lookouts with three of their five hits. Jay Difani collected two of the Nat's six.

Opportunity Knocks at Back Door for Smug To Make His Debut at New York Garden

FREDDIE SCOLARI of the Caps was all set to return to his home in San Francisco Friday, but had to wait a day for his brother and sister-in-law, who were en route here from the Coast to watch the Caps in the playoffs. . . . That's what they get for not reading the newspapers. . . . The announcement that Graziano will fight Tony Zale for the title in Jersey City will be made shortly after the April Horne-Graziano bout here. . . . Graziano will get $120,000 to defend his crown, but if Horne upsets the Rock at Uline's the Jersey City battle may be "postponed." . . . Olympic Games Amount to Replay of AAU-NCAA Finals

Kentucky And Phillips Big Favorites

New York, March 28 (U.P.).—The Olympic Basketball Tournament had a decided this-is-where-I-came-in appearance as the teams awaited the semifinal round tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

In one bracket, the Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., meet the Denver Nuggets. The same two teams played in the finals of the National AAU tournament two weeks ago.

In the other bracket, Kentucky faces Baylor. These two met a week ago in the NCAA finals.

There was nothing in yesterday's first round which led anyone to believe that Phillips won't beat Denver as it did before, or that Kentucky won't trounce Baylor again.

Denver Star May Not Play

As far as the Nuggets were concerned, they were in less of a position tonight to beat the Oilers than they were in that first meeting when Phillips won by a 62-to-48 score.

Vince Boryla, who scored 21 points as Denver downed the Oakland, Calif., Bittners yesterday, still was having trouble getting around on the knee he wrenched badly in the final seconds.

Since he is 80 per cent of the Denver attack and the team is shy on reserves anyway, his presence is necessary to keep the tilt tomorrow from becoming an out-and-out rout.

The latest report is that Boryla probably will be able to play.

But while Boryla's condition remained doubtful, there was little doubt about Kentucky's Alex Groza. His coach, Adolph Rupp, had moaned all that week that "pore li'l Alex" was suffering from a series of viruses running from A to X, and maybe Y and Z.

Yet "pore li'l Alex" somehow managed to struggle onto the floor last night as Kentucky walloped Louisville, and he scored 12 points without once needing artificial respiration.

Beard Outscores Groza

He was not the high-point man of the 91-57 farce, however. Those honors went to a muscular "move-about" named Ralph Beard. There was nothing to stop the ever-charging Beard as he ran up 22 points.

Baylor won over NYU yesterday in the opening round through the simple expedient of scoring the last goal of the ball game. The whole affair was one continuous seesaw, with the lead changing almost every time the ball swished through the basket.

NYU tied the score with 54 seconds to go on Joe Dolhon's free throw. But when only 45 seconds were left, Jim Owen slithered in a push-shot to give Baylor its 59 to 57 win.

The Phillips Oilers, with 7-foot Bob Kurland showing the way, tried a little too hard against Prospect Park YMCA and won, 74 to 32.

Fairway Chatter:

'Fabulous Fogle' and His Famous 2d Shot Silenced Scoffers When He Was on the Spot

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

YESTERDAY'S COLD weather limited play at area golf clubs, but it wasn't enough to discourage the hardier enthusiasts.

Most clubs reported some activity, although many of the golfers quit after nine holes. At Prince Georges, some of the members were sitting around afterward "shooting the breeze."

Someone brought up the strange case of Capt. Jim Fogle, whose remarkable feat last summer is a recurrent conversational topic whenever Prince Georges golfers get together.

It seems Fogle was playing with three other Army officers when he hit his second shot into the woods on the fifteenth hole. Not only was he in the woods, but a deep ditch lay between his ball and the green, some 75 yards away.

Fogle addressed his ball, swung, the ball rose high in the air, bounced on the green and rolled straight into the cup. After his companions were able to regain their powers of speech, they began needling Fogle on the subject of his "dumb luck."

After several minutes of these jibes, Jim had enough.

"Listen, boys," he said, "I can make that shot with my eyes closed. That wasn't luck, it was skill."

This remark brought on another flood of jeers, whereupon Fogle produced another golf ball, dropped it in the same spot of woods, addressed the ball and swung again.

The ball took off, rose high into the air, landed on the green and rolled straight into the cup.

There is no record of the conservation that followed Fogle's second shot, but the record of the incident is on file at Prince Georges.

Highs Mix Their Sports This Week

Washington high schools this week play the last of their 1948 basketball games and their first baseball games of the new season.

The St. John's Cadets are the last basketball holdouts. The Cadets journey to Newport, R. I., where on Thursday they play in the quarter-finals of the Eastern Catholic Interscholastic Invitational Tournament.

Have 22-Game Streak

If they win their first game against Catholic High of Trenton, they'll play Friday night in the semi-finals. The finals take place Saturday night.

With their 26-1 record, and 22-game winning streak, the Cadets are considered prime contenders for the championship. They figure, at least, to improve on their last showing in the tournament back in 1938, when they were eliminated in the first round. Joe Gallagher, coach of the '48 Cadets, was a member of the '38 team.

Leading St. John's will be heralded Jack George, whose brilliant football as well as basketball play has earned him over 30 collegiate scholarship feelers. Six foot 1 inch George and his 15 points per game average, will be complemented by Tom Fannon, Billy Martins, Al Weavers and Vince Durkin. They average over 6 feet in height.

The baseball season opens Tuesday with defending interhigh champion Calvin Coolidge invading Episcopal of Alexandria. Coolidge also plays Thursday against Woodberry Forest in Virginia.

In all, six baseball games, a tennis match, six track meets and a swimming meet inaugurate the spring season for the high schools in the next seven days.

Bowie Opens Racing Today

Flag Drill, a shining light at Oaklawn; G. C. Gilbert's Scholarship, 1947 winner of the Rowe. The two minor track stars—G. Y. Booker's Lawless Miss and Mrs. J. D. Coleman's Boston Man—are reported ready and eager to upset horses with better press notices.

Shamrock Stable's Air Patrol, top-weighted in the nominations, was not entered. Eagle Eye carries the heaviest impost, 116 pounds. The others, including Robert Hall's popular Tacaro Briar, are in light.

The Rowe is backed by a promising secondary feature, the Chesapeake, a $5000 affair at a mile and 70 yards. This event will bring into action the Beiber Stable's Basileus 2nd which cost the owner $40,000 on the French horse market. He will be opposed by Salvo, Miss War, Bell-The-Cat and others, adept at the distance.

In all, 112 horses were placed in the first day's entries; surprising when it is considered New England racing is already under way and meetings come up soon in New York and New Jersey. Looks as if Maryland has its share of top horses.

The daily double is on the first and second races and overflow entries lists reveal that those races will have full fields of twelve. The windows for the popular twin wager close at 1:45 p. m. with the first race scheduled to get off at 2 p. m.

In addition to the Rowe, three other stakes will be decided at Bowie. The Bowie Handicap, for 3-year-olds and up, goes next Saturday. The following Wednesday (April 7) 2-year-olds will have their chances with the Bowie Kindergarten at 4 furlongs. The closing Saturday (April 10) brings out the older horses once more.

Good time reading about racing, better time watching it. See you on the rail.

Woodhouse Eyes Calumet Job

Miami, Fla., March 28 (AP).—Headley Woodhouse will do "some riding for us in Maryland," H. A. (Jimmy) Jones, trainer for Calumet Farm, said here today.

"If he does well, he may do a lot," Jones added.

There has been no contract or salary agreement, Jones explained, and not evan a first call on Woodhouse's services.

(In Bowie Mike Walsh, agent for Woodhouse, was quoted as saying the 27-year-old jockey had signed a Calumet contract.)

Mt. Rainier Men Will Operate Track

Two brothers from Mount Rainier, Stover and J. Willard Babcock, have signed a three-year lease that gives them the right to promote auto racing on the Arundel Harness Racing track located 9 miles from Baltimore on Ritchie Highway.

The first of seven Sunday afternoon programs on the half mile dirt track will take place May 2 with 75 laps of stock car racing.

Washington Ahepa Beaten in Chicago

Chicago, Ill., March 28 (AP).—Washington's Ahepa Lions basketball team bowed out of the National Hellenic championships Saturday night by losing to the Ypsilanti Sons of Pericles, 54-27, in a quarter-final game. The winners led, 24-17, at halftime.

Taylor Is Spark

If Spirit Will Win Games, Browns May Be Surprise Team

(Editor's note: This is the third in a series reviewing major league baseball teams' prospects for the 1948 season.)

By Bob Myers

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP). As the more facetious observers like to say, the St. Louis Browns are still in the American League.

The club, by this eyewitness account, still has 40-odd players on hand, and all are properly uniformed and equipped with gloves and baseballs.

Such bits of humor, however, are beginning to wear thin around the club's player front, and for very good reason.

Of the six major league clubs which have trained in California and Arizona this spring, none has displayed more hustle or better spirit than the Brownies.

This has been evident in the club's daily drills and its practice games, and by the way, the Browns have been registering around a .500 percentage in the sun-kissed circuit.

FOR A CLUB that has lost no fewer than six good players via the front-office winter deals—Bob Muncrief, Walt Judnich and Johnny Berardino to Cleveland, and Jack Kramer, Ellis Kinder and Vern Stephens to the Boston Red Sox—this display of high morale is to be applauded.

The man most responsible apparently is venerable, weather-beaten Zack Taylor, the new manager, who convinced the players from the outset that they were on their own.

This is not to say that St. Louis will be spectacular, but many erstwhile skeptics now believe the Browns will give Chicago and Washington quite a fight to stay out of the cellar, which is where the Browns finished last year.

The pitching is highly questionable, catching good enough, infield much better on defense than offense, and outfield merely fair.

Taylor still declines to nominate his starters, but he has consistently used Chuck Stevens at first, Gerry Priddy at second, Bob Dillinger at third and Eddie Pellagrini at short; Whitey Platt in left field, Paul Lehner in center, and right field is open. Other leading outfield candidates are Al Zarilla, George Metkovich, Pete Kayden, Joe Frazer, Ray Coleman and Boris Woyt.

GEORGE McDONALD from San Diego has been alternating with Stevens at first, and there are several other infielders looking for work.

Les Moss heads the receiving staff, with Roy Partee and Rookie Tommy Jordan, a nice-looking recruit, on deck.

"My pitchers are in shape, better shape than some thought possible, and that much I can guarantee," guaranteed Taylor, looking over a group that included Al Gerheauser, Fred Sanford, Nelson Potter, Cliff Fannin and a couple of others.

GW Sailors Beat Princeton

George Washington University sailors yesterday defeated Princeton University skippers in their second annual yacht races for an old copper beer mug.

Paced by the performance of Eric Nordholm, the Colonials scored 106 points in eight races against Princeton's 100 points. William Barclay of Scarsdale, N. Y., was high man for the visitors.

The race was a carryover from Saturday's postponed event when a minor gale upset four boats.

Two other schools competed with GW for separate honors. They were Hobart College and Delaware University.

In this event, George Washington also came on top, with Hobart second with 74 points and Delaware third with 62. Princeton did not figure in that series.

The Delaware sailors found the tricky northern wind and their 14-foot tempest class dinghies a little rough at times. Two of their boats capsized during the race, but harbor police rescued the crews. No one was hurt.

Jones Meets Ray Lewis Here Tonight

Herbie (Biff) Jones, who failed in two previous "big" chances—against Johnny Bratton and Johnny Williams—has another opportunity to prove his ability against classy competition when he clashes with Ray Kalani Lewis at Turner's Arena tonight.

The Jones-Lewis lightweight eight is the feature attraction on the regular weekly card which also offers another pair of eights and two fours.

Jones, winner of his last four bouts by kayoes after starting the year with a loss, is in a good spot to win headline laurels for the outdoor season if he can hurdle Lewis. The invader, a native Hawaiian, sports a fancy record of only three defeats in more than 30 bouts and those who saw him in action in Hawaii say he's quite a classy fighter.

Lewis' latest victory was scored only last week against Tony Riccio in Holyoke, Mass. His victims include Petey Virgin, whom Jones also whipped, and Jimmy Carter, a good featherweight.

In the other eights, Kid Alexander, subbing for Featherweight Red Gaddis, goes against Bobby Polowitzer, of Hartford, Conn., while Middleweight Walter Rowan, of Richmond, faces California Terry Gibson.

The first bout opens the show at 8:45.

Cy Young Reaches 81st Birthday

Newcomerstown, Ohio, March 28 (AP).—Baseball's greatest pitcher, Denton True (Cy) Young, will spend his 81st birthday tomorrow down on the farm.

Early Monday Cy will be up, helping with the chores on the 80-acre farm of his friend and host, John Benedum, only a stone's throw from his native home near Peoli, deep in Tuscarawas County hills.

"I can still do my work. I feel good and I sleep good. But I'm slipping a little, for I can't see very well," the veteran hurler said.

Wilson Named Canisius Coach

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28 (AP).—James B. Wilson, former Cornell end, returned today as head football coach at Canisus College.

Wilson, who guided the Griffins from 1939 to 1942 when football was discontinued until after World War II, succeeds Earl Brown, who took over this year at Alabama Poly (Auburn).

Colonials Name Bo Rowland, Of Oklahoma City, Coach

help anticipated from the Colonials' great Tuffy Leemans.

Rowland comes to George Washington with unqualified recommendations from such masters as Earl Blaik, Dana Bible, Bernie Bierman, W. A. Alexander, Ray Morrison and Carl Snavely.

It was on Snavely's recommendation, as one of the country's ace single wing teachers, that the G.W. athletic board finally chose Rowland.

The new Colonial mentor, called "an aggressive sort with a genius for organization," has a brilliant record. In 12 years as a head coach he's led teams to 94 victories, 23 losses and 4 ties.

Rowland played football at Henderson-Brown and Vanderbilt during his collegiate career and at one time or another held down every position except center.

Vanderbilt Law Grad

He graduated from Vanderbilt in 1925 with a law degree, the next year going back to Henderson as head coach. In seven years there his teams won 53 games, lost 9 and tied 3.

There followed jobs at Ouchita Baptist, Oklahoma University, Syracuse and finally Cornell, where he worked under Snavely. In 1940 Rowland moved into the top spot at The Citadel and during three years of Southern Conference competition racked up 15 victories, 9 losses and a single tie.

A pre-flight training program threw Rowland back with Snavely during the war, then in 1946 he took over at Oklahoma City University.

In his first year his team lost only one of its 11 games, led the country in offense and in Andy Victor, a speedy halfback, produced the highest scoring college player in the country.

Last season O. C. U. wound up with seven won and three lost.

Now 45 years old, Rowland is married and has one daughter.

tripled over Coan's head in left field.

Pesky's double that led off the Red Sox seventh against Scarborough wasn't much of a blow but its effects were staggering. It was a high-hopping bounder over Yost's head that Coan permitted to skip through his legs. Pesky ran all the way home to put the Sox in front 6-5.

After that there were such items as a walk to Mele, a single by Moses, singles by Stephens and Doerr, and a double by Tebbetts before they got Scarborough out of there in favor of Joe Jones, who stopped 'em.

Against Dorish after the fifth inning, the Nats flunked out almost completely. They got one ball out of the infield—McBride's single.

AL KOZAR DREW a mean glare from Vern Stephens after upsetting the Red Sox shortstop and breaking up a double play in the first inning . . . Rookies aren't supposed to do that in exhibition games . . . Johnny Sullivan, out of uniform for two days with a lame knee suffered yesterday at Lakeland, got no encouragement today from the play of his rival for the shortstop job, Sam Meeks . . . Meeks came up with four fancy plays and the Nats, who ordered him from Chattanooga for a look, now are certain to keep him with the club. He could even be their opening game shortstop . . . He went hitless in five trips today, but he brings a .335 batting average up from the minors . . . Leon Culberson, still complaining of a lame ankle, was out of uniform . . . The Nats will be back in Orlando tomorrow for a day of rest ordered by Manager Joe Kuhel . . . He's even lifted the ban on golf for one day, to encourage relaxation.

'Slighted' Irishmen Parade on Easter

Newark, N. J., March 28 (AP).—The McGoverns, with bagpipes and kilts, held a combined St. Patrick's day-Easter parade today.

Members of the Frank McGovern Association and its auxiliaries, marched down Newark's Broad Street with bands blaring as they promised to do when assigned to the rear of the official parade of the Irish for the second straight year.

Adm. Kelly to Retire From Active Duty July 1

New York, March 28 (U.P.).—Rear Admiral Monroe Kelly, commandant of the Third Naval District, will retire from active duty on or about July 1, the Navy Department announced today.

He will be succeeded by Vice Admiral Walter S. DeLeney, commander of battleships and cruisers in the Pacific Fleet. The Third Naval District includes New York, Connecticut and New Jersey north of Trenton.

American Broadcast Jamming Increases

Manila, March 28 (AP).—Despite official U. S. protests, the jamming of Voice of America transpacific Russian-language broadcasts was louder than ever today.

Interference built up to a crescendo of squeals, howls, dots and dashes just after 11 a.m. Greenwich mean time (6 a.m. Western standard time) when the State Department's newscast for Siberia went on the air.

To Discuss Health Needs

Health needs of Prince Georges County will be discussed at a meeting of the health committee of the Prince Georges County Planning Council at 8 p. m. Thursday in the County Service Building, Hyattsville, Md. The committee is headed by Mayor Caesar L. Aiello of Hyattsville.

"COME IN... THE DOOR IS OPEN!"

The door to safe and sound insurance is wide open to you here at Wolf & Cohen! We want you to feel free to seek counsel on life and property insurance from us anytime. We welcome the chance to explain all technicalities of your insurance coverage—show you how, where and why you are insured under your contract.

For 70 busy years we have acted as representatives for many a large corporation BUT we are just as interested in analyzing and streamlining YOUR policies regardless of how large or how small they may be. Remember—increased values make many policies inadequate. Don't wait until you have a loss before finding that you lack full coverage. We've had a lot of experience in the insurance business—and it's the kind of experience you can put your faith in.

So come in and get acquainted! The welcome mat is out!

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Kluttz

Goodloe Is Reported Ready to Resign as RFC Board Chairman

RFC: John D. Goodloe is reported to have made up his mind to resign as board chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He's said to have half a dozen offers which are much more attractive financially than his $15,000 Federal salary.

Goodloe probably would have quit several months ago if RFC hadn't been under fire on Capitol Hill. Now the RFC inquiry is completed, and Congress is set to give the agency a new vote of confidence by lengthening its life for 10 years. Goodloe will leave Government in June.

Who will take his place? The decision probably hasn't been made, but insiders are guessing it will be Donald S. Dawson, the President's able administrative assistant on personnel problems. Dawson was in RFC for about 15 years up to a few months ago when he went to the White House.

STORY: The postman who delivers my mail is a wonderful and efficient fellow. The other day I received a card which was addressed in this way:

"To the Bald-Headed Guy Who Writes a Government Column."

I received the card within a few hours after it was mailed.

VA: This agency is cracking down on its employes. Many offices are wiping out the usual 10-minute midmorning and afternoon rest periods, and now the snack bars are being shut down most of the day.

A memo issued several days ago limits snack bar business from 7:10 to 8:10 a. m.—before the work day starts—and from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., the lunch period. The bars had been open throughout the day. Machines have been installed where cigarettes can be purchased.

The rest-period memo was issued several months ago. It gave office chiefs the authority to abolish the practice. Now some of them are doing just that. However, a survey taken before the memo was issued showed that the rest periods were beneficial, and that most employes produced more work when they were given the breather.

Also, the crackdown extends to late arrivals. Several employes who have been less than 5 minutes late recently have been charged with an hour's annual leave each.

PAY PROGRESS: A subcommittee of the Senate Civil Service Commission will meet again today to try to fit a "just" pay plan into the half-billion-dollar cost ceiling laid down by GOP leaders. It will be presented with a bill that carries these provisions:

1. Revision of the Classification Act which would give the 800,000 employes under it an average increase of $100, but some would get more and others none at all;

2. To add to this increase through revision a "temporary" flat boost of $200 each;

3. To raise the minimum salary of a full-time adult employe to $2200, which would mean that CAF-1 employes would be started in the middle salary bracket;

4. To give the 450,000 postal employes a flat $450 each, an amount which would give them by far the best of the deal, and,

5. And to break the $10,000 ceiling on Classification Act employes, but to do it gently by limiting the number and by requiring prior approval of the Civil Service Commission. Salaries of Cabinet officers and other Federal officials—salaries that haven't been raised since 1926—also would be boosted a bit as they should be.

To sum up, the 800,000 Classification Act employes would be given an average increase of $300 each, but the politically powerful postal employes would get 33 per cent more, or $450 each.

PEOPLE: James Considine has been promoted to comptroller of the RFC. This job pays $12,000 a year, one of the best in Government. He had been an official of the audit division. . . . T. Ray Talbert has the strong backing of the National Association of Postal Supervisors to be postmaster of this city. He's the No. 2 man in the postoffice here. . . . Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.) will speak on April 12 at a meeting of the Federal Club in the Willard.

RETIREMENT: Hundreds of Federal workers, it seems, are planning to retire under the Langer-Chavez-Stevenson Act that recently became law. Several people have asked me if the Civil Service pensions are subject to Federal income taxes. This is the official Civil Service answer:

"Under decision by the Internal Revenue Commisioner, an annuity under the Retirement Act is not reported as income until the annuity as actually received exceeds the sum contributed by the individual to the retirement fund. Until this point is reached, 3 per cent of the sum contributed by him to the fund must be reported as income.

"When the amount of annuity received and excluded from gross income equals the sum contributed by the employe, the subsequent annuity is subject to being reported in its entirety for income tax."

PER DIEM: The Senate Civil Service Committee will start hearings on April 5 on salaries paid to per diem employes, about 600,000 of them.

Easter Rites At Sunrise Attended by 50,000 Here

Throngs Shiver In Cold; Truman Hears Sermon On Immortality

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

President Truman was one of approximately 300,000 participants in yesterday's Easter rites in Greater Washington.

The worshipers included 50,000 shivering sunrise service spectators who huddled in blankets and heavy coats in the cold, windy Arlington Amphitheater, at Fort Lincoln Heights, Jefferson Memorial and other places.

The cold decreased the attendance at runrises rites.

Police estimated that 10,000 went to Fort Lincoln Heights, Bladensburg rd. and the District Line, where the D. C. Organized Bible Class Association conducted services. There were 8000 persons at Knights Templar services at Arling, and 1000 at the Washington Federation of Christian Youth program at the Jefferson Memorial, according to park police.

Accompanied only by Secret Service men, Mr. Truman attended the early service at 9:30 a. m. at First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw.

Speaks of Immortality

With some 1500 other worshipers, the Chief Executive heard Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor, preach a sermon on immortality.

A spiritual companionship with Jesus is Easter's significant fact, the minister said.

"In this respect, Christianity is absolutely unique," Dr. Pruden explained. "Other religions provide a moral code, a system of ethics, and a number dogmas to believe. But only Christianity provides us with the companionship of a person.

After the service, the Chief Executive was escorted to the White House car by Dr. Pruden and the Rev. R. Edward Dowdy, associate pastor.

Sermons Express Hope

The hope of immortality that Easter symbolizes was expressed in sermons, prayers and music be- capacity congregations. Many churches held extra services to accommodate the throngs; some persons heard programs through loudspeakers in overflow church space.

"The issues in which God has a stake can never be ultimately defeated," Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo declared at the Arlington Amphitheater service sponsored by the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar. "It is for this reason that there is an increasing reverence for the Easter festival."

Dr. Sizoo, president of New Brunswick (N. J.) Theological Seminary, and one-time pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church here, said in part:

"Easter means for us that the Sermon on the Mount will outlast a blood purge; that the Cross will outwit the hammer and sickle, and that Jesus Christ will outlive Karl Marx."

Service Is Broadcast

The Arlington service, broadcast over WTOP, opened with a procession of uniformed Knights, led by the United States Marine Band, conducted by Maj. William F. Santelmann. Fred E. Blood, chairman, conducted the service. The Knights placed a cross of lilies on the Unknown Soldier's Tomb after the service. John T. Rice of El Paso, Tex., grand master of Knights Templar of the United States, was represented at the service by C. Byron Lear, grand generalissimo of the Grand Encampment.

Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, minister-emeritus of Detroit's Central Woodward Christian Church, addressed the Bible Association rites at Fort Lincoln on "The Matterhorn of the Holy Scriptures."

Discussing the need of attaining spiritual, instead of material, heights, the clergyman said:

"Is it not enough to conquer? No! It is not enough to become President of the United States. Once in that high office the occupant must give a good account of himself, endeavoring to serve the highest interests of all the people. It is not enough to amass a fortune. Whoever does should be concerned about using at least a part of his possessions for society's good . . . The best of men and women are more than their successes, greater than their defeats, better than their material prizes."

Music for the Fort Lincoln rites was furnished by the United States Navy Band and Bernice Rickman, soprano. The United States Navy color guard presented colors. Howard M. Stackhouse of Emory Methodist Church, Brightwood, general chairman of the program, presided.

More than 5000 persons worshiped at sunrise services at Bethesda Naval Medical Center, under Bethesda Council of Churches' auspices.

Because of the cool weather, the services were held inside the center's auditorium, where Admiral William N. Thomas, Navy chief of chaplains, spoke.

The Bethesda-Chevy Chase A Cappella Choir and the male chorus from the Naval Medical Center sang at the service, broadcast over WBBC.

Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, Army Chief of Chaplains, addressing a sunrise service in Walter Reed Hospital's formal gardens, declared:

"This world's crucial problem on this Easter day of 1948 is how may human beings and nations live together securely, nobly and happily. In the midst of the unrest of the nations of the world, where is there light if not in the glory of the Resurrection; where is there hope if not in Jesus, who taught and believed that love and brotherhood is the final truth and is the one redemption and hope of mankind?"

At the sunrise services at Jefferson Memorial, sponsored by the Washington Federation of Christian Youth, the Young People's Choir of Asbury (Negro) Methodist Church sang several anthems, while eight young Japanese women sat among the listeners on the steps. An Army brass quartet that played included Albert P. Goepper, Keig E. Garvin, George W. Meyers and William L. Bachman.

Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, spoke on immortality.

Secretary of the Army, Mayflower Hotel; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mangum, 1803 Biltmore st. nw.; Mrs. Constance Roemer, 1809 G st. nw.; Richard Barker, 2810 McKinley st. nw.; Mrs. Mary Brown, 4683 Homer ave. se.; Mrs. Theodore Ives Messenger and her daughter, Missy, 3, of 2480 16th st. nw.

Other winners were Mrs. A. Melville Cox, Mrs. C. L. Blecker and son, Mr. and Mrs. Dabney, and David Birch.

The Berlin museum collection at the National Gallery of Art drew a large crowd, but officials said they did not believe it would equal the previous Sunday's numbers.

Railroad and bus line officials said both incoming and outgoing crowds at local terminals were heavier than usual, while most restaurants did a feast day business.

The Easter celebration here will continue today with school children released from classes, some for another week. Stores and banks will maintain regular working hours, however.

Seven extra policemen have been detailed to handle traffic around the White House, which will be open to visitors from 10 until 12 today. There will be no egg rolling on the White House lawn, however.

The Zoo animal houses will be closed today, and no vehicles will be allowed within the Zoo grounds. Zoo officials expect large crowds to come in for egg rolling purposes during the day.

Soldiers Home grounds also will be thrown open to those who wish to bring their children for egg rolling.

The weatherman predicted mostly sunny weather for today, warming in the afternoon. The temperature is not expected to go above the 50s. Yesterday, the high registered at 3:15 was 41 degrees, and early yesterday morning the thermometer dipped to 33.

A light frost was predicted last night, with temperatures hovering in the 20s in city and suburbs.

While Washington's Easter observance followed traditional lines, there were some sections of the country where Easter finery was ignored this year. In some churches in both Georgia and Alabama, ministers appealed to their congregations to wear their regular clothes as a move to do away with the fashion factor in Easter Sunday.

At Effingham, Ill., more than 400 members of the First Baptist Church wore overalls and gingham dresses to Easter services at the request of their pastor. They contributed for a new church the money they would have spent on new clothes.

In Washington, however, new fashions were everywhere, and hats were as giddy and as filmy as their wearers wished.

To Church Authorities

Cumberland, Md., March 28 (AP). The Rev. Richard H. Bready, whose ouster has been demanded by the board of one of the four Methodist churches which he administers, said today he will take his case to church authorities next week.

Meanwhile, the Methodist district superintendent, the Rev. William F. Wright, announced in Hagerstown the controversy will not be taken up until the quarterly conference May 9.

The board of the Centenary Methodist Church, near here, called for rescinding the Rev. Mr. Bready's preaching license earlier this week. It based its demand on the clergyman's acitivities with the Progressive Citizens of America.

To Open Bids Tuesday

Bids for the construction of a new building for the Washington Highlands Jewish Center will be opened at a meeting of the building committee at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday, it was announced yesterday by William Friedman, committee chairman. The committee will meet at the present center, 100 Atlantic st. se.

Woman Accidentally Kills Husband in Maryland Home

William Leroy Jones, 27, was accidentally shot to death by his wife, Dorothy, 20, late Saturday night in the kitchen of their home on Bonifant rd., about a mile from Colesville Pike, in Layhill, Md.

The accident happened after the couple had completed dyeing Easter eggs for their two children, aged seven months and two years.

The hysterical wife told Montgomery County police that her husband had started to clean his .38 caliber pistol but laid down the weapon when she suggested they first color the eggs.

When the eggs had been dyed, Mrs. Jones said she picked up the pistol and playfully snapped the trigger several times.

She said her husband cautioned her against pulling the trigger, declaring she might ruin the firing pin or the spring.

As he spoke, she said, she pulled the trigger once more and the hammer clicked upon a cartridge. There was a sharp report and the bullet struck Jones in the heart.

Mrs. Jones told police that as her husband slumped to the floor, he exclaimed, "Honey, you've shot me."

Mrs. Jones's screams attracted the attention of her sister, Mrs. Edna Queen, who was elsewhere in the house. Mrs. Queen aroused her husband, Franklin Queen, who was sleeping upstairs. Queen ran down to the kitchen and saw his brother-in-law on the floor and the victim's sobbing wife kneeling beside him.

Queen placed Jones in a car and rushed him to the Montgomery County General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. J. W. Bird.

After an investigation, county police announced they were satisfied that the shooting had been accidental. The body of Jones, who was a plumber, was taken to the W. Reuben Pumphrey Funeral Home, Bethesda.

Easter Auto Crashes Kill Two Women In Suburbs

5 Badly Injured As Cars Collide On Crain Highway Near Mitchellville

Two persons were killed early yesterday in automobile crashes on highways in nearby counties.

The victims were Miss Mary Virginia Ryan, 32, of Baltimore, and Miss Audrey Martin, 17, of 5534 Wessling ln., Bethesda, Md.

Miss Martin

In addition, Katherine Jean Nicholson, 12, was critically injured at about 10 o'clock Saturday night when struck by an automobile near her home in Layhill, Md.

The accident in which Miss Ryan was fatally injured occurred at about 1:50 a. m. on the Crain hwy. at Kidwell's Corner, near Mitchellville, Md. Five other persons were injured in the two-car head-on collision.

Riding With Baltimore Man

Prince Georges County police said Miss Ryan was a passenger in a car driven by Lewis F. Frey, 57, also of Baltimore. They said they believed the driver of the other car to be Thomas, Moore, 34, of Upper Marlboro, Md., a farmer.

Riding with Moore, police said, were Roy Smith and Harry Tippett, both of Upper Marlboro, and Robert Walker of Mitchellville. All four men are farmers. The six persons involved in the accident were taken to Prince Georges General Hospital, Cheverly, by the Marlboro Rescue Squad. Miss Ryan died there at 10 a. m.

Frey was in serious condition with a compound fracture of the right leg and a fractured left leg and facial injuries. Moore suffered facial injuries, lacerations, abrasions and shock; Smith lacerations of the chin and a possible jaw fracture, and Tippett had face cuts.

Walker, after treatment for cuts of the face and right leg, was referred to Mount Alto Hospital for X-rays.

On Wrong Side of Road

County police said the car carrying the four farmers was apparently on the wrong side of the road when the Frey car came over the crest of a hill. The head-on crash followed.

The second fatal crash happened about 2:30 a. m. when a cab crashed into the side of the Cherrydale Cement Co. building, 3436 Lee hwy., Arlington, Va. The Martin girl, who was employed as a waitress, was pronounced dead on arrival at Arlington County Hospital.

Three other occupants of the car, including the driver, Frank Jones, 20, were also injured. The hospital reported Jones in critical condition with internal injuries, compound fractures of both legs and shock.

Jerry Lussier, 23, of 5518 Glenwood rd., Bethesda, Md., was in critical condition with internal injuries and broken bones. Dorothy McCarthy, 22, also a waitress, who lived at the Wessling lane address with Miss Martin, suffered cuts, bruises and shock.

Arlington County police said the cab, owned by Andrew W. Phelps of Route No. 1, Rockville, Md., was traveling east on Lee hwy. at high speed, failed to complete a sharp turn near the Cherrydale Bank and went off the right side of the road.

Katherine Nicholson was injured after alighting from a bus in front of her home on Layhill rd., near Bonifant rd., in Layhill. Crossing in front of the bus she was struck by an auto driven by Robert W. Musgrove, 23, of Layhill. The child was dragged 40 feet.

The girl's father, Richard P. Nicholson, a farmer, was coming out of a lane to meet her and witnessed the accident. He and Musgrove rushed her to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, Md.

The hospital said the child suffered a brain concussion, lacerations of the forehead, scalp and chin, fractures of the teeth, abrasions of the left hip and abdomen, laceration of the left knee and leg abrasions and puncture wounds of the right knee.

Dairymen Look To Spring Pasture For Cost Relief

Blacksburg, Va., March 28 (AP). Spring pasture will be welcomed by Virginia dairy farmers this year as a relief from the most expensive winter feeding season in their memory, an Agricultural Extension Service specialist said today.

Extension Dairyman Robert G. Connelly said the fresh, green pasture, if abundant enough, will provide cows with all the elements that became depleted in their bodies as a result of low-grade hay feeding last winter.

It is important, he said, to take steps to have on hand some supplemental feed when the lush pasture season is ended. He advised that supplementary pastures and summer silage may pay large dairy dividends when June pastures decline. He suggested that farmers see their county agents about sweet Sudan grass for summer grazing.

Area News in Brief

Motorist Arrested Twice in 3 Hours

A man was arrested yesterday and charged with driving while drunk in Northeast Washington less than three hours after Prince Georges County police released him under collateral on drunk and disorderly charges in Brentwood, Md.

He is Alvin C. Thomas, 40, a chauffeur, of 910 9th st. ne. He was arrested in Brentwood at midnight and posted $25 to be released at 9:30 a. m.

At noon Motorcycle Policeman W. A. Hensley saw Thomas' car going "a little too fast" on New York ave. ne.

Hensley decided to slow Thomas down, when he saw the car go out of control, weaving down the street, Hensley said.

At Fenwick st. ne., the policeman finally stopped Thomas and took him to the Ninth Precinct, where, according to police, the driver first protested, then went sound asleep.

Greenbelt Wins Citation

Greenbelt, Md., is one of 303 cities of 5000 to 10,000 cited by the National Safety Council for going through 1947 without a traffic fatality, the council announced yesterday.

The city, which won a place on the honor roll of the Nationl Traffic Safety Contest, will receive a framed honor roll certificate in recognition of its record.

Traffic Lights Out

Traffic lights were out of order eigth hours yesterday on 17th St. from L st. to Massachusettes Ave. and at 17 th. St. and Connecticut Ave. N. W.

PEPCO service men were notified at 9:30 a. m. and hed the lights back in order by 6:15 p. m: after they finally found a burned cable in the traffic time control box at 18 th St. and Jefferson Pl. N. W., a spokesman said.

Police reporetd no casualties because the signals were out of order, although heavy traffic moved with difficulty during the afternoon's Easter Parade.

Egg Seller, $20, Vanish

The purchase of "bargain priced" Easter eggs proved to be an expensive venture for Mrs. Grace Cross, 4953 Central ave. se.

She reported to police yesterday that on Saturday a man came to her door and offered to sell her eggs at 40 cents a dozen. She said she ordered two dozen for her four children and gave the man a $20 bill. He left, saying he was going to get change and bring her the eggs, but did not return.

Volunteer Unit Moves

The volunteer center of the Council of Social Agencies will move to new quarters Wednesday in the Community Chest and Council Building at 1101 M st. nw.

Training courses will be held Tuesday evenings for veterans' hospital hostesses, and Saturday mornings for hospital office and ward volunteer workers. Several hundred openings for volunteer workers are available, it was announced.

Exhibit of D. C. Prints

An exhibition of 534 prints and maps at the Arts Club, 2017 I st. nw., illustrating the city's growth, was opened yesterday with a tea.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Columbia Historical Society and the Arts Club, and known as the Machen Collection will continue through April 16.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

- Should Papa Help?

One school of thought in the domestic arena tells wives they should realize that the breadwinner has been struggling hard all day to support the family and that he should be protected from the toil and care of the home. Yes, this slipper, pipe and easy-chair approach is appealing—to men.

Circumstances differ in every home. One can be sure, though, that the willing help of the male parent in the evening will be welcomed in every home. Children enjoy having their father do things for them, and the oft-fatigued homemaker will appreciate a hand from her breadwinner as much as orchids and candy.

Follow Ida Jean Kain's 12-Day Diet

Squelch Appetite—Then Reduce

By Ida Jean Kain

You'd like to join the 20-Pounds-Less Club, but you love to eat! That's no barrier. Barrie loved to eat—still does! But she no longer loves to overeat. There's the secret of slimming.

First find the chief mischief maker. Put your finger on the specific food that boosted your weight over the pleasingly plump curve.

With Barbara Ann it was scalloped potatoes. Plus desserts. She loved scalloped potatoes, to the extent of taking three enormous servings! To see potatoes as pounds, she took three whole servings and piled them into one. After a long look at that mound of starch she quipped: "No wonder my figure looks like a sack of potatoes, bumps and all!"

To carry you through the first hungry days, I'll show you how we squelched Barrie's appetite. Here was her SOS—

"For heaven sakes, tell me what to do when I come to dinner so ravenously hungry I could eat the daisies on the table—including the leaves!"

You know just how she felt? Start with a piping hot bouillon. It's soothing comfort that lets you relax and eat a little more slowly and enjoy the taste of the food—rather than eating fast to fill the void. That way you enjoy only quantity—and it's fattening. And chewing helps appease hunger. Chew some celery and raw carrot slivers.

Lean Meat for Main Dish

Eat a good main course dinner—lean meat, as generous a serving as can be eked out of the budget, a fluffy baked potato with a half-pat of butter, two low-calorie vegetables, and a salad. Calorie clippers—delete gravy, limit dressing to one-half tablespoon, skip bread. Finish with a hot beverage, tea or black coffee . . . if you like it that way. If you can't abide it, then take it with one tablespoon of cream and one teaspoon of sugar. Or saccharine may be used for sweetening. It has no calories.

Dessert? Barbara Anne would rather have had dessert—a good big luscious dessert—than all the rest of the meal. She asked wistfully if she could diet that way if she did not exceed her calories. Seems to me I've heard that request before! The answer is No! That wouldn't do one thing to help improve food habits. Restrict dessert to fruit.

But here's the happy ending on that score—the less she ate rich desserts, the less she craved them. She could hardly believe it when after three weeks she didn't even want a piece of pie or cake—not even or her twenty-fifth birthday. She looked at the lighted cake and said brightly, "Now I know what makes people take on weight with birthdays—it's the cake!" She ate only a slim slice.

If she can do that, can't you? A sweet tooth is acquired, not inherited. Spot your calorie gremlin, look it smack in the eye—then screw your courage to the sticking point, and you won't need a consolation prize. Life is fun for the members of the 20-Pounds-Less-Club!

Freshening a Sponge

To whiten and purify a sponge, soak it in milk and rinse thoroughly in warm water to which a little carbolic acid has been added. It will come out like new.

How to Prevent Ovenwear Damage

How can one keep glass ovenware from turning brown and if it does, is there a way of cleaning it? I. R. E.

To keep such ovenware from turning brown, be sure that any previous food which might have stuck to it is scoured off before using it again. Going over the piece with steel wool each time it is washed will remove all greasy film and lessen the chances of the film surviving the washing operation to cause discoloration when heated. If it becomes brown, the best chance of removing it is to scour with steel wool and a mild abrasive, wash in hot soapy water, and dry thoroughly.

How can I remove ink from a fiber or matting rug? E. J. W.

Unless the ink is washable, your chances of removing it from the rug are not good. Sometimes, even if it is washable, it is difficult to get it out. However, you might try this: Place padding under the spot and sponge the area with clear water, sponging toward the center to avoid spreading the ink. If a stain remains, apply a solution of oxalic acid. Dissolve crystals in water until it will dissolve no more. Oxalic acid is poisonous, so handle carefully. Also, since it is a bleach, keep it confined to the stained area. Rinse very thoroughly by sponging with a cloth wrung out of clear water.

Sometime ago you answered a question regarding fine criss-crosses on furniture. I have saved the clipping and wonder if one can use that method (linseed oil, turpentine and varnish) to treat the whole piano. Mine is not only full of criss-crosses, but also needs brightening up in general. L. M.

Although the only way to get rid of hairline checking on a varnish finish entirely is refinishing, the method you refer to will improve the checked area considerably. The mixture—2 tablespoons boiled linseed oil, 1 tablespoon turpentine, and 1½ tablespoons clear varnish—is also good for repolishing dull finishes and for building up worn or damaged places on the surface.

But here's a note of warning: The method should not be used if the piano is a valuable musical instrument. As you probably know, musicians do not approve the use of oily substances in polishing fine pieces because of their effect on the tone. However, if the piano is a more or less decorative piece of furniture in your home and seldom played, treating it with this mixture should be worthwhile.

Warm mixture before you use it by placing the uncorked bottle or another container in a pan of hot water. (Bear in mind that the ingredients are inflammable.) Apply the warm liquid to only a small part of the furniture at a time. Rub it hard, using the palm of your bare hand. As the polish sets, it begins to stiffen and your hand drags. Then rub off at once the polish that remains, using several clean cloths. If you do not take off all this extra polish the furniture will remain sticky. Repeat the treatment until the checking shows less.

Can you tell me how to get the glass stopper out of an old bottle of perfume? Have tried boiling water and also a flame, but to no avail. H. D. G.

Any other suggestions, readers?

PETUNIA!

Confound the luck,
I say! Doggone
The folks who glue
Their bottle caps on!

Famous House To Be Opened During Tour

One of the Georgetown hostesses opening her home for the annual Georgetown House Tour, on the calendar for next Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3, is Mrs. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt. One of the Cooke's Row houses which played an important role in the social history of old Georgetown, it was for many years the residence of William A. Gordon, former Confederate officer and a descendant of George Gordon, one of the original landowners of the site on which Georgetown was built.

The beautiful furnishings in the house today were collected by Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt during their long sojourn abroad, or were heirlooms cherished by several generations of the Roosevelt family in their ancestral hall at Skaneateles, N. Y. The sixteenth-century Flemish tapestries are among these, two which hang in the drawing room, one in the dining room, a fourth on the sun porch.

This house is one of the 10 to be open from 2 to 6 p. m. next Saturday, April 3. Another lovely old house scheduled for the second day of the tour is the one recently purchased by Representative and Mrs. Christian A. Herter at 3108 P st., a red brick Georgian, built 150 years ago. Among its treasures are several pieces by the Brothers Adam; a table in the hall, window seat, cabinet in the dining room and a magnificent pair of consoles. The Waterford glass sconces in the dining room are especially fine.

Sir John and Lady Balfour now live in the old house at 1224 30th st., which the late Ruth Hanna McCormick restored from three small houses. It is now owned by Mrs. Paul Bartlett. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is opening her house at 3130 P st., a nice old house which she purchased after selling Uplands on Foxhall rd. And the Raymond E. Lee house, 1344 30th st., also on the Saturday list, is a "must" for pilgrims.

Tickets went on sale this week at the Statler and Willard Hotels, the AAA through Saturday noon, April 3, Francis Scott Key Bookshop and other Georgetown shops.

Committee Head Is Named for Annual Benefit

Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman of the Thrift Shop's white elephant tea, on the calendar for Wednesday, April 28, from 4 to 6, has appointed Mrs. Barry Mohun to be in charge of bundle contributions. She will be at the door of Anderson House, 2118 Massachusetts ave., to welcome guests, assisted by members of her committee, all of whom are members of the Thrift Shop's six member boards.

Those in the group are Mrs. W. W. Rapley, Mrs. Edward H. Foley, jr., Mrs. John F. Brawner, Mrs. Reeve Lewis, jr., Mrs. Landra Platt, Mrs John Lewis Smith, jr., Mrs. Robert Moran, Mrs. G. Brown Miller, Mrs. Robert Wright Fleming, Mrs. Francis C. Almiral, Mrs. Thad H. Brown, jr., Mrs. Walter White, Mrs. Donald McKnew, Mrs. Eugene Carusi, Mrs. W. M. Ritchie and Mrs. A. Peter Dewey.

If the day is sunny—and the committee is banking on good weather—Mrs. Henry Miller and her aides, Mrs. Harry Kerr, Mrs. Archibald Davis and Mrs. Ormsby McCammon—will serve tea and cakes in the garden.

Husband Affirms Wife's Indictment of Her Sister as an Ingrate; But Mother Remains Neutral; Which of the Two Is Justified?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: In her twenties my mother was left a widow with two small daughters, and as soon as we girls were old enough we worked to help her. Then Mildred, at 20, married Jim, and unfortunately he proved to be a sponger.

He shirked responsibility, felt the world owed him a living, envied what others obtained by thrift and diligence and was only concerned with good times. He and Mildred lived practically hand-to-mouth and he was still the same shiftless fellow after their children came.

Mother and I felt terribly sorry for Mildred and her babies in this degrading situation and did our utmost—gladly, from the heart—to meet their needs. In fact, we were overly generous in this respect, wanting to make up for the hurt of Jim's negligence.

Defines Case Against Sister

IN THOSE years, Mildred couldn't give us anything in return, nor did we expect it, but the situation is different now. Her children are half-grown, she is employed, they are pretty well-fixed for the future, and though she could well afford to, she never remembers us on birthdays or other days of sentiment, not even with a card.

Mother never complains and tries to hide the hurt, which I know is slowly breaking her spirit; but I must admit I am terribly hurt, although I am not the sort to remind her of past favors. My husband, who is kind and understanding, says there is no excuse for Mildred's neglect of mother, even if she forgets3 my son and me.

When I see how generous Mildred is with her children and friends, I can't help thinking my husband is right when he forbids me to give her or the children another gift or do them any further favors. However, mother feels he is wrong; but as it is a touchy subject, we seldom discuss it. Please advise whether his attitude is justified. O. B.

Giver's Feelings Make a Difference

DEAR O. B.: It seems to me that in labeling Mildred's reproductive phase "a degrading situation," due to poverty occasioned by Jim's negligence, you are unconsciously stating your primary feeling about their relationship of that time.

It was a blend of disapproval, distaste and agitated social chagrin, I gather; which, while accelerating your drive to help them financially and thus save family-face, also made your charitable activities an additional source of humiliation to Mildred, who, while helplessly receiving, was miserably aware of the criticism implicit in the "giving."

Moreover, it is safe to say that as your good works grew in volume, so did your casual assumption of every right to speak with authority in her affairs, as to her spending, handling of the children, etc.,—on the theory (mutually sensed, if not spelled out) that by her needful acceptance of your gratuities, she forfeited title to defend her preferences against your suggestions.

Husband Cuts Sorry Figure

IN OTHER words, to the very extent that she couldn't make literal repayment, to that extent you counted on gratitude as a fair return. I daresay; gratitude (which some wit has defined as "lively anticipation of favors yet to come") expressed in terms of acting meek or "poor in spirit."

No doubt Mildred disciplined herself to meet these terms in the critical years, but in so doing stored up a tremendous charge of resentment and ego-resistance aimed at her benefactors' implicit demands for special deference,—with the result that as soon as she got on her feet, she was unconsciously, compulsively bent on keeping as much distance between them and herself as she could manage: as first-aid to serenity and personal integrity in the deeper sense.

For the rest, your mother's dignified refusal to entertain criticism of Mildred is admirable; whereas there is no virtue in your husband's attitude. He cuts a sorry figure, fomenting strain among the women of his wife's family; and if he is too stingy to give except on a barter-basis, he need expect no blessing to seek him out.

Red Cross Class To Study Foods

A new Food Costs Workshop will start Thursday, April 1, in the nutrition kitchen of Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts ave. nw., the American Red Cross has announced.

Classes will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1 to 3 p. m. The workshop will consist of six class meetings, with emphasis on springtime menus using low cost foods. The place of milk in the daily diet, the use of meat and its relation to the food budget, undernourishment due to improper food preparation, and marketing to save pennies will also be discussed.

Parties, Bonnets Blossom In Capital As Washingtonians Observe Holiday

By Marie McNair

Easter Day parties, like spring, were "busting out all over" yesterday. Easter bonnets and bunnies were on parade at Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould's luncheon at the Carlton, showed up again at Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz's late afternoon cocktail party at their home on Foxhall rd.

Early guests at Mr. and Mrs. Cafritz's house, could look out on the flowering trees scattered throughout the garden and at nightfall floodlights shooting through the bows made it a fairyland scene.

Early guests also had opportunity for more than a passing word with the hosts, could leisurely take in Gwendolyn Cafriz's enchanting frock of stiff gray taffeta with a pleated ruffle around the floor length skirt, a brief bolero over a white blouse with a scarflike drapery over one shoulder. The rare orange and yellow striped orchids which she had pinned to her bodice, had been sent to her by Mrs. Claude Pepper who later showed up at the party after first sending word she wouldn't be able to come.

Everybody seemed to be in party mood yesterday, wearing their new spring hats, even if fur coats were needed against the cold winds.

There was music—Frankie Tamm and his accordian, and a pianist who kept up a lively obbligato to the conversational tune.

Justice Burton Attends

Justice and Mrs. Harold Burton were there and Senator Owen Brewster being quizzed on what he knew about the rumor of the newest Democratic presidential possibility — Senator Walter George, who, like Barkus, "is willin'." Mrs. Brewster's Easter hat of beige straw had a spray of gay red poppies falling over the brim.

It wasn't long before everyone in the room knew that Gen. Mark Clark was there, he having flown in from California to spend Easter with his mother, Mrs. C. C. Clark, who was with him yesterday.

Gen. Gordon Young, and Mrs. Young, and Gen. and Mrs. Conger Pratt were also in the gathering. Sadie Pratt in a flaring white hat adorned with shiny black wings. Then there were Marriner Eccles, talking to Mrs. William T. Mann; the Luxembourg Minister and Mme. LeGallais, Mrs. Clinton Anderson, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture. Stopping for a word with Mrs. Lawrence Wood Roberts was Mrs. Sidney Graves, who with Mr. Graves had only to come from their house next door.

I met Representative Lowell Stockman—tallest man in Congress, I believe—coming in with Mrs. Stockman; Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, and Mrs. Hornbeck who has finally succumbed to the new look, and was wearing a becoming gown of gray crepe; and chatted with Dr. and Mrs. Leo Brison Norris—Marion Norris in a black frock and lovely hat of mauve flowers, with emerald green velvet bows tucked between the blossoms.

Mrs. Katharine Byron, a gay nineties girl in black taffeta with ruffles at the hem and a misty pink tulle hat on her dark hair, stayed until the last possible minute before hurrying off to be home when guests arrived for supper. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Diggs were there; Mrs. Mason Gulick made her way around the room in her quiet way, and Mrs. Mitchell Palmer was the center of one gay group after another.

Looking exactly like a mannequin was Mrs. George Abell, her pale gold hair drawn smoothly to the back, and wearing a black and candy pink striped satin suit with a double bustle.

And—I glimpsed through a sea of faces, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farrington, blonde Fay Lewishon all in black; bachelors Bob Dudley, Fred Roy, George Williams and Ralph Forster.

Still others were Miss Bertha Joseph, Miss Virginia Parks, Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, the Constantine de Stackelbergs, D. W. Honeywell, Capt. Jones-Davies, the Emil Hurjas, Col. Alf Heiberg and Mrs. Heiberg, Mrs. Harold Walker and her son, Aldace.

Mrs. Gould's party was in honor of the Australian Minister, Alfred Stirling and his sister, Miss Dorothy Stirling, who've made a warm circle of friends since they came to Washington little more than a year ago.

The 86 guests were seated at small flower decked tables and at Mrs. Gould's table was a centerpiece of Easter lilies and blue delphinium. Pink and blue bunnies were on guard at the entrance door.

The Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani were among those at the hostess' table. Also Veterans Administrator, Maj. Gen. Carl Gray, and Mrs. Gray, the Dominican Ambassador and Senora de Thomen, the Lebanese Minister and Mrs. Charles Malik. Other guests included the newly appointed Belgian Minister, Maurice Heyne; Senator Arthur Capper, Senator and Mrs. Walter F. George, Senator and Mrs. Brien McMahon, Senator and Mrs. George Malone, the Assistant to the President and Mrs. John Steelman, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Clayton Adams, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Charles B. Drake, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Richard Cutts, Representative and Mrs. Karl LeCompte, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Capt. and Mrs. William H. Watson, jr., Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson.

Mrs. Harriman There

Former French Premier and Mme. Chautemps, Mr. and Mrs. James Souby, Mrs. Parker West, Mrs. Thomas A. Wadden, Col. Fred Johnston and Edward Flather kept conversation rolling at one table. Mrs. McCeney Werlich could be spotted by her red straw sailor, and then there were Brig. Gen. Albert Cox, correct in cutaway, with Mrs. Cox; Fernando Saboia of the Brazilian Embassy; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Witt, Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Clarence Hewes and his sister, Mrs. Robert Flowerree.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman was there, and to go on, Col. and Mrs. Randolph Coyle, Mrs. Randall H. Hagner, Mrs. Emerson Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mrs. Mitchell Palmer, Mme. Vladimir Rybar, Mr. and Mrs. Marquis Childs, Dr. and Mrs. Matthew White Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harkness, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watson, Merritt Swift, Mme. Lucien Basset, Ralph Forster, Lyle Brookover, Lieut. David Holdsworth, James Parks and his aunt, Miss Virginia Parks; Mrs. Septimus Austin and her daughter, Madeleine; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Baird, Mrs. Thad Brown, Col. Garritt Fletcher, Thomas Wadden, Nathan Bartlett, Mrs. Arthur Doig, visiting here from St. Louis, and Frederick Britten.

Fashion Note :

You must have lilacs on your hat this spring. Mrs. John Steelman had a spill of purple ones on her wide rolled brim hat. Miss Stirling's bonnet was trimmed with white ones and green veiling. Mrs. William Watson wore white and mauve lilacs on her black sailor and Polly Guggenheim had a coronet of white ones.

Lane Silent On Outlook For Tax Cut

Annapolis, Md., March 28 (AP).—Governor Lane is sitting tight regarding any tax reduction outlook for Maryland.

While revenue estimates have been revised upward this year, some receipts have shown a decline. Just what turn the State's income will take next year remains to be seen.

Present expectations of revenue for the fiscal year appear to be hopeful, a total of $53,432,000 against an original estimate of $49,440,000.

Sales Tax Revenue

The sales tax accounts for a little less than 25 million dollars of the expected revenue. Alcoholic beverage and race track receipts, however, are expected to be well below estimates.

Of course, there is still the income tax—received chiefly in April and May—to be collected. So far revenue from this source indicates it will be greater than last year.

The biggest gap in revenues is in distilled spirits. Total revenue for the fiscal year from this source was estimated at $6,500,000. It looks now as if it will be $2,500,000 less.

Beer receipts also are expected to fall from $1,650,000 to $1,500,000. Wine revenues are running well ahead of expectations, but the anticipated figure of $380,000, is small from a fiscal point of view.

Racing Dates a Factor

A change in the Maryland racing dates will mean a cut in State racing revenues of approximately $360,000, Comptroller James J. Lacy estimates.

Governor Lane is on record favoring postponing an increase in the State income tax of from 2 to 2½ per cent on earned income. So far he has said only that he would have to await recommendations of the State board of revenue estimates before such a step could be taken.

"THE HAPPY TYMES": Robert Ellis, Ann Sothern and Jack Carson in "April Showers," the Warner screen's story of a vaudeville family in 1912

15 Injured In Weekend Assaults Here

Thirteen persons were cut with knives in weekend assaults here while one was hit over the head with a dinner plate and another with a bottle.

Meanwhile, one woman was charged with making a false report to police when she declined to implicate her common-law husband in the assault in which her leg was cut with a knife.

She is Mrs. Helen E. Johnson, 34, of 1410-A Half st. sw. The man, Charles L. Johnson, 46, of 615 Burke's Court sw., was subsequently charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. Mrs. Johnson first told police she had fallen on the street and cut her leg, later changed her story to blame it on Johnson.

The dinner plate landed on Paul Lacks, 32, of 905 O st. nw. The bottle landed on the forehead of George E. Thomas, 52, of 1221 6½ st. nw.

The other wounds were inflicted on Clarence Campbell, 40, 70 Pierce st. nw.; Horace L. Huyck, 38, of 40 Rhode Island ave. nw.; George Simmons, 649 N st. nw.; Jules Fleming, 26 615½ M st. nw.; Willie Connor, 21, 308 K st. sw.; George McShay, 39, 84 Congress Court nw.; James Parker, 38, 3524 13th st. nw.; Howard Davis, 33, of 228 10th st. se.; Elliott Jones, 29, 2017 Portner pl. nw.; Earl Pannell, 1628 Swann st. nw.; Lucille M. Brown, 27, of 41 H st. sw., and Aubrey Hayes, 220 D st. nw.

25 of Virginia's Leading Chefs To Vie in Tourney

Fredericksburg, Va., March 28 (AP).—About 25 of Virginia's leading hotel and restaurant chefs rolled up their prize recipes tonight and headed for Fredericksburg and the opening Monday of the State's second annual chef's tournament.

For two days they will lay before a panel of gourmets and food experts their best culinary offerings in competition for prizes and favor of the critics' persnickety palates.

One of the judges may be hard to please. He is Ted Shane, the New York critic who authored a recent magazine piece called "I Hate Southern Cooking." The State Chamber of Commerce guaranteed his safety and Shane accepted the invitation.

Something new has been added this year, too. Three Army chefs from Camp Lee's Quartermaster School will compete. The sponsors of the tournament asked the Navy to come in also, but did not get an immediate response from the fleet powers that be in Norfolk.

Novelist to Lecture At National Press Club

Arthur Koestler, best-selling European novelist, will lecture on "The European Dilemma" at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday in the National Press Club auditorium, 14th and F sts. nw.

Koestler, who is on a five-week lecture tour of the United States, will give the proceeds to the International Rescue and Relief Committee, an agency which aided him when he was in a German concentration camp in France in the last war.

Council to Discuss Religious Education

Winchester, Va., March 28 (Spl.). A special committee of the Frederick County Council of Churches will meet April 6 with the county school board for a discussion of the recent Supreme Court ruling on religious education teaching in schools. The committee will report back to the church group on April 10.

Classes are now being taught in most of the county schools by teachers employed by the council.

Stafford Budget Hearing

Fredericksburg, Va., March 28 (Spl.).—A public hearing on the Stafford County budget for the year 1948-49 fiscal year will be held by the board of supervisors at the county courthouse April 5 at 10 a. m. Proposed expenditures total $400,897, of which $212,506 is for schools.

League Report Cites District Anti-Semitism

Anti-Semitism in the District last year added to prejudice and discrimination against Jews nationally, the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League found in its annual survey released yesterday.

The league cited a number of "unrelated but parallel efforts" by Congressmen and private citizens in Washington that "tended to create an unhealthy climate of opinion in the District of Columbia."

The Gerald L. K. Smith meeting at the foot of the Washington Monument last August was termed "the major thrust of organized anti-Semitism in Washington," a city that "may well be a most accurate index" for the country as a whole.

However, the report states, "church, labor, veteran and civic groups" here united to give Smith the "quarantine treatment—they refused to play into his hands by attacking him and thereby exciting controversy and interest in his program."

The attempt by some residents of Bannockburn, Montgomery County, Md., to invoke a restrictive covenant against a Christian wife because of her Jewish husband, was cited by the B'nai B'rith group, as well as the later withdrawal of the suit by the "publicity-embarrassed plaintiffs." Also cited was an editorial in The Washington Post scoring un-Americanism of the Bannockburn residents.

"Despite this one encouraging incident," continues the survey report, "in 1947 there was wholesale indulgence in the restrictive covenant or in the use of unwritten rules to bar persons of the Jewish faith from purchasing or residing in certain properties in and around the Nation's Capital."

WMAR-TV Is CBS Link

Columbia Broadcasting System announced yesterday that Baltimore's television station, WMAR-TV, owned by The Baltimore Sun newspaper, has been added to its chain of television affiliates. The expanding CBS television network includes also stations in New York and Philadelphia.

One on the Aisle—

'April Showers' Is Torrent of Tears

By Richard L. Coe

"APRIL SHOWERS," or "Father Wore a Flask," is a backstage vaudeville story that leans toward "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

The Warner screen conjures memories of "Mother Wore Tights," "Killer McCoy," "You Were Meant for Me," "My Wild Irish Rose," "Forty-second Street," "Burlesque," "Gold Diggers of Broadway," "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Gold Diggers of 1935," "Gold Diggers of 1937," "Broadway Melody," "Broadway Melody of 1936," "Broadway Melody of 1938," "Broadway Melody of 1940," "San Francisco" and a case of rigor mortis.

Whatsanfranciscodoininhere? Thats where the story is based, silly. It's all about Joe Tyme, June Tyme and Buster Tyme. They're a vaudeville team, "The Happy Tymes," see? Joe and June are downright awful as an act, but they come to life when their little boy runs away from military school to join the routine. Variety says they're terrific in San Francisco, but they want to triumph in New York, which it looks like they'll do only there's a law against child performers' so they can't play there. This sends them back to the coast where Joe Tyme—"Big" Tyme—hits the bottle and the act almost breaks up. But one of June's old flames takes Joe's place and things look good until the mug wants to marry June. It's all very sad.

The period is 1912 and the story is said to have been suggested by Joe Laurie, jr., than whom there are few who know as much about vaudeville.

The fact remains, this is the very period when Gus Edwards was offering his "Boys and Girls" and "School Days" revues in New York. It was the same period when Walter Winchell, Eddie Cantor and George Jessel were doing the same things at the same age that 13-year-old Buster Tyme was barred from doing. So exactly why Laurie let Script Writer Peter Milne use the child's age as a plot contrivance is baffling.

No Drinking Allowed

Baffling, too, is why "Big" Tyme was barred by shocked managers because he'd gotten tight for the first time in his life just before his act was to go on. It may have been the best act in the business, but, gosh, whiz, nelly, when a man's been drunk once you can't possibly ever hire him again, now can you?

Jack Carson, Ann Sothern and Robert Ellis are the "Happy Tymes" and they're a long-suffering lot. Carson gets some laughs with his knowing double-takes. Miss Sothern is obviously baffled by her sad chores. Ellis, though, is good as the youngster, however his prodigal assurance may alarm you.

S. A. Sakall shivers his jowls as a patient hotel proprietor and Robert Alda, once the screen's Gershwin, is on hand as the wicked fiend who wants to break up the Happy Tymes. There are some pleasant old songs — "Strolling Through the Park," "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet" and the title song among them—and the vaudeville stages are reasonable facsimiles of the real thing.

About the only thing that sets "April Showers" apart from others of its genre is that after it's over you feel you've been to a funeral. You certainly can't say there's nothing different about a musical that suggests a wake.

"APRIL SHOWERS." Warner Brothers release produced by William Jacobs. Screen play by Peter Milne from a story by Joe Laurie, jr. Music arranged and adapted by Ray Heindorf. Additional music by Kim Gannon, Ted Fetter and Walter Kent. Photographed by Carl Guthrie. Directed by James V. Kern. At the Warner.

EXTRA MATINEES this week at the neighborhood houses seem to be the rule . . . The Warner houses are having daily matinees at the Apollo, Savoy, Avenue Grand and Home at 1 o'clock, a policy also being followed at the chain's other neighborhoods . . . The Naylor is having daily matinees Easter Week and starting with Sunday, April 4, will have matinees Sunday, Wednesdays, Fridays, Saturdays and holidays . . . Easter Monday matinees are planned for the Lust houses, the Hyattsville, Bethesda, Kaywood, Cheverly, Cameo and Milo.

KEITH'S "I Remember Mama" bill also includes an RKO special on "Twenty Years of Academy Awards," with excerpts from the films and performances which have won Oscars since 1927 . . . That's covering fast ground for a 20-minute short.

YOU'LL BE SEEING some movie-making around town this week, but don't ask us to settle on the locations . . . Universal is making scenes for "Washington Girl," a Deanna Durbin film, here . . . Some tons of fragile equipment got in by air at National Airport the other day.

TONIGHT: Thomas Mitchell returns to the National stage after a long Hollywood stay in "An Inspector Calls." . . . Others in the J. B. Priestley play include Melville Cooper, Doris Lloyd and three young folk of famous stage and screen parents: John Buckmaster, son of Gladys Cooper; John Merivale, son of Philip Merivale, and Patricia Marmont, daughter of Percy Marmont.

Misters Bar at TB Destroyed by Fire

Waldorf, Md., March 28 (Spl.)—A bar and grill owned by Mrs. Arthur Misters at T. B., Md., near here, was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Ten fire companies, including the Clinton Volunteer Fire Department with its new $8000 fire truck, responded to the alarm about 11:15 a. m. Others were the Volunteer fire departments of La Plata, Silver Hill, Morningside, Accokeek, District Heights, Oxen Hill, Marlboro, Boulevard Heights and Forrestville.

12 Virginia Painters Named for Exhibition

Richmond, Va., March 28 (AP).—Twelve Virginia artists are among those whose works have been selected for the sixth biennial of contemporary American Paintings Exhibition, the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts has announced.

The sixth biennial will begin with a preview April 10, and be open to the public from April 11 through May 9.

Richmond Paper Probe Opposed By Louderback

Stanley, Va., March 28 (AP).—Delegate C. C. Louderback of Stanley today expressed opposition to the House resolution directing a probe of Richmond Newspapers, Inc., and said he would be glad to see it nullified.

At the same time, Louderback, chairman of the House appropriations committee, expressed approval of the delegates' action in voting themselves an additional $300 in expense money. He said a perusal of the State constitution failed to disclose to him "any valid reason" why the House could not properly take such action.

Louderback stated his position in a letter to Raymond S. Davis, president of the Virginia Press Association.

At the time of its passage, he wrote, he considered the resolution ordering the newspaper investigation "just an enjoyable joke." He said he classed it, at the time, with the Crockett resolution proposing removal of General Assembly sessions from Richmond to Williamsburg.

Congregational Group Approves Merger, 50-5

Winchester, Va., March 28 (Spl.).—Delegates to the midyear session of the Valley Conference of Congregational Christian Churches voted 50 to 5 for the proposed merger with the Evangelical and Reformed Church, Roy Larrick, president, has announced.

At the same meeting laymen were elected to the Southern convention at Henderson, N. C., next month, and the Rev. Clyde Koon was received into the conference as an ordained minister. A former Salvation Army Corps official, the Rev. Mr. Koon has been serving the Shenrock group of churches in Rockingham County.

Dominican Republic Plans Roosevelt Stamp

Baltimore, March 28 (AP). — A Baltimore photographer's etching of Franklin D. Roosevelt is to be used on a new Dominican Republic postage stamp.

The photographer, Leon A. Perskie, said he had been informed of the selection by Luis F. Thom, Ambassador to the United States from the Latin America republic.

No definite date has yet been set for issuance of the stamp.

200th Anniversary Uncelebrated in Culpeper County

Culpepper, Va., March 28 (Spl.)—The 200th anniversary yesterday of the passage of the legislative act founding Culpepper County went almost unnoticed here.

It was in 1748 that the House of Burgesses authorized separation of the county from Orange County. Originally the county included also the area now recognized as the counties of Madison and Rappahannock. Lord Culpepper, for whom the county was named, was a colonial governor, and though appointed for life, returned to England and the court of Charles II after a short stay in Virginia.

During its 200 years, Culpepper County has had such distinguished guests as George Washington, who was for three years county surveyer, Marquis de Lafayette, and President James Monroe. It was the scene of some of the hottest Civil War battles.

Plans for a celebration next year on the anniversary of the actual organization of the county, are now being made by local organizations.

Printers Hold Court Ruling Not Binding

Chicago, March 28 (AP).—Leaders of the Chicago local of the AFL International Typographical Union said today the local's strike against Chicago newspapers would not be affected by a Federal court injunction issued against the International.

Members of the local, after a closed meeting today, said they had been told they would continue to receive strike pay but that the money would not come from the ITU treasury.

U. S. District Judge Luther M. Swygert issued the temporary injunction at Indianapolis yesterday. It enjoined the ITU and its principal officers from sanctioning strikes in violation of the Taft-Hartley law.

The injunction was based on a showing of probable cause that the ITU and its four top officers had sought to circumvent the law by insisting that newspaper publishers accept "conditions of employment" or a "no contract" policy which "unequivocably required the employer to maintain a closed shop."

ITU members have been on strike against 16 daily newspapers in nine cities. About 1600 have been on strike against the Chicago papers since November 24. The newspapers have been publishing throughout the strike with a photo-engraving process.

Members of Chicago local 16 who attended the meeting today said spokesmen had told them the strike would continue.

Delegate to Ask Va. House to Void Vote for Bonus

Richmond, Va., March 28 (AP).—Delegate Edward T. Haynes of Richmond today said he planned to ask the Virginia House of Delegates Tuesday to reverse its action in voting each member a $300 bonus for expenses.

Haynes announced he would offer, in the "constructive session," which convenes at noon Tuesday, a resolution to repeal or otherwise "make null and void" the resolution under which the payments were authorized.

Most delegates already have received checks for the bonus, and many have been cashed. Haynes said he supposed "it would be a matter of conscience" whether members who have cashed their checks should refund the $300. He said he did not believe a revocation would compel members to refund the money.

Marionette Shows Slated At Four Schools

The Children's Theater of Theater of Washington is sponsoring a series of marionette shows at four public schools Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Rufus Rose Marionettes, a touring puppet show from Waterford, Conn., will perform Rip Van Winkle Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., at Gordon Junior High School, Wisconsin ave. and T st. nw., and Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., at Taft Junior High, 18th and Otis sts., ne.

Pinocchio will be presented Tuesday at 8 p. m., at MacFarland Junior High School, Iowa ave. and Webster st. nw., and Wednesday at 10:30 a. m., at Anacostia High, 16th and R sts., se.

Tickets are 30 cents for children and 60 cents for adults at the Snow Concert Bureau, 1108 G. st. nw.

Arlington Sets Public Health Nursing Week

Public Health Nursing Week will be observed in Arlington from April 11 to 17, the County Board announced yesterday.

Daniel A. Dugan, board chairman, said the time is set aside "to pay tribute to Arlington's 26 blue-clad nurses whose work might otherwise be taken for granted."

County-wide observances of Public Health Nursing Week are sponsored by the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, Arlington's Health and School Boards and the Instructive Visiting Nurses Association.

"There is a ration of one nurse to every 4600 persons in Arlington," Dugan added, "whereas, the American Public Health Association recommends one nurse for every 2000 persons." The figures indicate how tirelessly our nurses must work to help the sick and prevent epidemics."

Restaurant Men to Meet

"The New Look in the Restaurant Industry" will be the topic of John W. Ebersole, Whie Plains, N. Y., president of the National Restaurant Association at a meeting of the Washington Restaurant Association tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the terrace room at the airport. J. W. Marriott of Washington, vice president of the national organization, will discuss public relations in the industry at the dinner meeting.

To Present Operetta

"Sunbonnet Girl," an operetta featuring students and faculty, will be presented at Claude A. Swanson Junior High School, Arlington, Thursday and Friday at 8 p. m.

Some Small Talk About Rooms Which Aren't Roomy

D. B. Harrison of 900 12th st. nw. wonders whether we've heard of the newlyweds who were being shown an apartment by a rental agent.

When they complained that it was too small, the agent reminded them that, after all, the place had been planned to accommodate only two people.

"I know," replied the young husband, "but later on we hope to keep a goldfish."

That reminds me of the time Fred Allen maintained that he had stopped at a hotel whose rooms were so small they had hunchbacked mice.

And Jerry (WINX) Strong loves to tell about being assigned to a hotel room so small that he washed the windows every time he blinked his eyes.

But I think the best one along these lines comes from the Cleveland television trouper, Paul Hodges, who describes his suite as "a room with an adjoining towel."

$20,000 ANSWER?

Inasmuch as the Raleigh Riddle still hasn't been answered properly, Mrs. John Maury of 521 S. Lee st., Alexandria, Va., thinks she may have a helpful suggestion.

Mrs. Maury's hobby is gardening, and thereby hangs the tale.

The riddle is: "Big chief wind bag, gloomy and gay. I'm one over others that lie in decay. Where may I be found? Upon low ground. That's all. That's all I will say."

Mrs. Maury suggests that the answer may be "monotropa uniflora," better known as Indian Pipe, corpse plant, or ghost flower.

Our Washington Post library tells me that the Indian Pipe looks like a white clay pipe, and grows on rotting leaves and stems in moist, shaded soil—sometimes low woodlands. It reaches a height of 6 to 10 inches, and bears one waxy white flower.

Those clues fit the Indian double-talk, the low ground, the decay, and the "one over others" (one flower).

Can it be that we have stumbled across the answer to their blasted riddle?

If "monotropa uniflora" wins the $20,000, I'm going to stick out my chest and crow that the correct solution appeared in the District Line. And of course if it's wrong, I'll blame the whole thing on Mrs. Maury.

LOSE A SECOND, SAVE A LIFE

"As a change from brickbats," writes Marion Shumaker of 3819 Oglethorpe st., Hyattsville, Md., "here's a different kind of story about Capital Transit.

"During the peak of the rush hour traffic on Rhode Island ave. ne., yesterday, Motorman 2496 brought his car to an unscheduled stop, and we wondered what was up.

"We saw him leave his controls and walk over to a parked auto. A little girl was sitting on the running board of the auto—on the traffic side—with the car door open.

"She was about 5 years old, and appeared completely oblivious to the dangers that whizzed past her every few seconds.

"The motorman picked her up, put her on the front seat, admonished her to remain there until her parents returned, and then shut the door of the auto.

"We need more people like Motorman 2496—who are willing to lose a few seconds, to save a life."

We certainly do, Marion. A resounding "well done" goes to Motorman 2496—who, according to the records at Capital Transit, is Arthur J. Lalonde of 61 New York ave. ne.

NEW YORK.—President Truman will go to Williamsburg, Va., this week to accept an honorary degree from William and Mary College. He will share the platform and sit at luncheon with Governor Tuck of Virginia. Governor Tuck led the revolt of the Southern political leaders against Truman over the proposed civil rights legislation . . . When the President learned that he and Governor Tuck would receive honorary degrees and would lunch together before the ceremonies, he asked: "What's the date?" "April 2," he was told . . . "Are you sure," said Truman, "it's not April First?"

Deems Taylor, the composer-critic and president of ASCAP, visited the MGM Studios in California and was introduced to Louis B. Mayer, the studio boss. "Deems Taylor?" Mr. Mayer repeated. "You've been famous such a long time that I expected to see a gray-haired man who has to stoop over" . . . "Wait," Taylor replied. "I've only been here one week."

Erskine Caldwell, who has a new home in Tucson, invited some of his writer-neighbors to dinner. The guests included Rosemary Taylor, author of "Chicken Every Sunday"; Clifford Goldsmith, author of "Henry Aldrich," and Eddie Davis, the author of "Follow the Girls." Caldwell showed them through his spacious, tastefully decorated home. "It ain't right," Davis criticized. "With all that money you made out of 'Tobacco Road,' not a spittoon in the joint?"

Former King Michael of Romania was one of the principal speakers at the Overseas Press Club dinner last week. Gen. Omar Bradley was to have delivered a speech, but illness forced him to cancel it. When Michael was told that General Bradley wouldn't appear, the former ruler also wanted to cancel his speech. He finally agreed to make his speech, but only after a phone call was made to Washington to assure him that General Bradley's illness was real and not diplomatic.

Taft Urged to Back New Controls

By Drew Pearson

March 28, 1948.

Memo to Senator Taft:

While you and I are in frequent disagreement, I have considerable admiration for your courage and tenacity. May I therefore present for your consideration a problem of vital importance to all of us.

Sen. Taft

As you know, the Administration is now planning to embark on a gigantic arms program, including thousands of jet planes, new rocket-launching guns, submarines that can carry rockets close to enemy shores, new airplane carriers which can launch bombers, fast merchant ships powerful enough to outrun submarines, and thousands of steel-consuming guided missiles.

In addition the National Defense Department urges a lend-lease program whereby we would equip the armies of democratic nations in Europe.

While this program may not all be adopted, yet if only half of it—including the aviation program which you yourself favor—is adopted, it will result in the greatest inflation this nation has ever seen.

Already we face a steel shortage. Already our railroads are hard up for freight cars. Automobiles are still short in supply. The manpower shortage still handicaps many industries. Electric power is so low in the West that California is on daylight saving. Last week when the airplane industries learned they were to start a new building program their aluminum orders swamped the three lone companies in this country which make aluminum.

In other words, with the Nation's economy already running at top speed, the Army and Navy have asked for 14 billion and are reported ready to ask for 10 or 11 billion more.

Boom-Bust Inflation

According to the opinion expressed by many of your colleagues, a large part of this money will be voted. But even if the air program alone is voted, it will push the Nation's normal peacetime economy into boom-bust inflation.

For on top of the tax reduction you are now voting, there will be more money to spend, more profits by those too recently on the gravy train, less goods to buy and further skyrocketing prices.

In short we may witness all the tragedy of Europe, where money means little more than the paper on which it is printed and when a cup of coffee at times has cost a million marks.

I am not proposing that the United States shirk from any arms program that is necessary. No great crisis has ever found this Nation lacking, and with Russia on the rampage, a big air program undoubtedly is necessary.

Controls Necessary

And though I have reservations about some of the other extravagant demands of the military, I have no reservation about the fact that if even a fraction of this arms program is to be met, the Nation must once more subject itself to a rigid, unpleasant system of controls. Furthermore, we must act before our economy gets out of hand.

Without going into the whys and wherefores of who killed OPA, it remains a fact that prices have gone up ever since. But that rise is nothing compared with the skyrocketing sure to be touched off by the new arms program.

So if we are to have controls, let's not go through the same hodgepodge we experienced during the late war, the same jumble of gerrymandered Government agencies built up and torn down on a trial-and-error basis.

First we had the fumbling National Defense Advisory Board—until it was superseded by the hydra-headed Office of Production Management—until it in turn succumbed to the War Production Board. Then there was the Supplies, Priorities and Allocations Board; and the OPA, which started off with limited authority, because a shortsighted Congress withheld that authority. As a result, some prices were up almost 30 per cent even before price control was adopted.

This time, however, we can't wait. We can't afford a trial-and-error system.

Last November President Truman asked Congress to give him the power to control prices. His request, in view of the arms program ahead, was modest. But even this was not granted.

Nevertheless if we are to build armaments, price controls and allocations of scarce materials have got to come. Furthermore, if you, Senator Taft, take the leadership which the country must expect of one who seeks to be elected to the highest office in the land, you should also receive certain advisory compensations. Senator Vandenberg, for instance, who has set such a fine example of bipartisan foreign policy, is consulted by the State Department in the carrying out of that policy and the appointments made under it.

A bipartisan domestic policy in this day of national emergency is fast becoming just as necessary as a bipartisan foreign policy. The two go hand-in-hand.

A lot of Senators are going to have to be big enough to reverse themselves on price controls and tax reduction if we are to follow the tough foreign policy the majority of Americans seem to favor.

And I, for one suggest that, as a start toward mapping out a sound domestic economy, we call in Bernard Baruch, Donald Nelson, Leon Henderson and the others who kept prices down and allocated war materials, and ask them to chart a new course to head off the oncoming hurricane of inflation.

THIS WEEK THE HECHT CO. SALUTES

and its workers who serve all humanity

• The Red Cross . . . D. C. Chapter . . . received its charter on March 25, 1905. Fifteen charter members met at the home of its organizer, the late Miss Mabel Boardman, for the first meeting.

• The Red Cross . . . Has some of its roots in a volunteer organization which performed services for the troops and cared for the wounded of both sides during the Civil War.

• The Red Cross . . . Owes much to Clara Barton . . . its founder and first president . . . who campaigned tirelessly to secure the United States' acceptance of the Geneva Convention, which provided for the free entry of Red Cross workers into battle zones during wartime. Clara Barton served through three wars, a massacre, and many other catastrophes during her long and fruitful lifetime of Service.

• The Red Cross . . . D. C. Chapter . . . has grown enormously since its beginning. Last year some twenty-five hundred volunteers contributed 474,818 hours of labor to Red Cross activities. The D. C. Chapter has been especially active helping out in the many Veterans Hospitals in the Washington area.

• The Red Cross . . . D. C. Chapter . . . performed outstanding services during the war years . . . collecting hundreds of thousands of pints of blood . . . tending to the needs of millions of service men . . . driving untold miles on Motor Corps calls . . . rolling bandages . . . packing food parcels for prisoners of war . . . bringing social help to the helpless . . . teaching Braille to the blind . . . and performing the countless functions which were so important during the war years in the Nation's Capital.

• The Red Cross . . . Constant contributor to the betterment of our way of life . . . and that of all mankind . . . is deserving of the support of all of us. The Hecht Company welcomes the opportunity to extend this modest tribute to the workers of the Red Cross . . . who do so much for so many.

The voluntary labor of hundreds of thousands of our citizens has made the Red Cross a part of America . . . indelibly woven into the fabric of our lives. Where help is needed . . . where disaster strikes . . . we know instinctively that Red Cross workers will be on hand . . . to lend a helping hand. They deal in humanity . . . that priceless intangible that defies description and tabulation. The record is there . . . printed in black and white . . . but of much more importance is what is everlastingly imprinted in the hearts of those they serve . . . the thousands of veterans in hospitals who are visited daily by Gray Ladies . . . the victims of fire and disaster who are left without shelter and food . . . a sick man whose life depends on blood transfusions secured through the Red Cross . . . indeed, all of those who are in need and receive help. The Red Cross worker typifies the essence of neighborliness . . . of "citizen helping citizen" . . . of one locality helping another . . . without thought of self-reward or recognition. To the thousands of men, women and children of the District of Columbia who give unstintingly of their time and labor to the American Red Cross . . . that priceless friend of humanity . . . go the heartfelt admiration and thanks of all of us.

All of the historical material contained herein has been secured from the American Red Cross and the Library of Congress.
